Adenauer To Visit U.S. At Kennedy's Invitation

PRESIDENT KENNEDY addressed a huge crowd in Aliquippa Friday as he carried his "maximum exposure" political foray into southwestern Pennsylvania. The President called upon Democrats to elect more Democrats. (UPI Photo)

Kennedy Rips GOP In Talk At Pittsburgh

Assails Democratic Conservatives Also; Talks At Aliquippa

WITH KENNEDY IN PENNSYLVANIA (AP)—President Kennedy carried his anti-Republican campaign deeper into largely friendly western Pennsylvania territory today, snapping at his own party's conservatives and plugging for what he called a progressive Congress.

Kennedy linked Southern Democrats with Republicans as foes of progress in a cheer-raising speech to Democrats who packed the University of Pittsburgh field house Friday night.

In territory that backed him by 4-3 or better margins in 1960, Kennedy urged voters to send the Democratic nominees to the House, re-elect Democratic Sen. Joseph S. Clark and support Democrat Richardson Dilworth as successor to Democratic Gov. David L. Lawrence.

He concentrated on that theme in sorties into McKeesport, Monessen and Washington—steel and coal country—before moving later today to Indianapolis and Louisville.

Both Indiana and Kentucky backed former Vice President Richard M. Nixon in 1960. Both have Republican senators up for re-election against challengers Kennedy hoped to advance. And while Kentucky has but one Republican in the House, Indiana shows a 7-4 GOP majority.

Applauding thousands greeted the barnstorming chief executive when he arrived in Pittsburgh late Friday. Earlier he had appeared before multitudes in Columbus Day ceremonies at New York and Newark, N.J.

This was his second venture into Pennsylvania in his effort to build up Democratic majorities in Congress for 1963-64. He is certain to return again before election day, to Philadelphia and possibly other spots in the eastern part of the state.

In Pittsburgh Friday night he put the emphasis on Democrats "who believe in progress."

Kennedy has alluded frequently in news conferences to conservative Democrats who failed to vote for his programs or those of the New and Fair Deals.

While attacking Republicans as standstill party, he called in Pittsburgh and at nearby Aliquippa for Democratic majorities which will support his domestic policies.

At Aliquippa, the President was greeted by state and county Democrats, including Eli Corak of Midland, Beaver County's Democratic chairman. Dr. Robert Higginbotham of Midland, a member of the county medical society, was scheduled to be a guest on the speakers' platform.

If his partisans sit idle until election day, Kennedy said: "We will be in the control of a dominant Republican - conservative Democratic coalition that will defeat progress on every single one of these measures. And that is why I came here tonight and ask your help in electing a progressive Congress."

Donovan Ill; Return Seen Soon To Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Attorney James B. Donovan remained in seclusion today for treatment of bursitis while members of the Cuban Families Committee professed confidence that he would return to Havana soon to complete arrangements for the release of the 1,113 Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners.

Donovan returned to Miami on Thursday from Cuba, where he said he offered Prime Minister Fidel Castro medicine and baby food in exchange for the prisoners. He saw a doctor about the bursitis Friday and slipped into seclusion after briefing the families committee on the negotiations.

A spokesman for the committee said that only technicalities held up the conclusion of the swap. Donovan, a New York lawyer who worked out the swap of Soviet spy Rudolf Abel for U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers, was hired by the committee to negotiate the freedom of the prisoners.

Opening Of Freeway To Cars 2 Weeks Off

Although the new city freeway will be dedicated Wednesday morning, the four-lane limited access highway will not be open to traffic for two more weeks, Safety Service Director Robert Owen was advised today.

Lyle Sweeney, superintendent for Chapin & Chapin of Norwalk, one of the contractors, told the director the firm will not complete its work until about Oct. 26.

Because the State Highway Department will not accept the road until the work is completed, the highway will remain closed officially, he said.

Fire Destroys Car

LISBON — Fire destroyed the 1956 Chrysler car of Daren Whitacre of Lisbon R.D. 3 at 3:15 a.m. today after he ditched the vehicle about three and a half miles north. He told firemen it caught fire when he was about 300 feet from his home and he said all he could do was to ditch it and then run home to call firemen.

SOS For Truant Members

Congress Bids To Reach Adjournment Goal Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 87th Congress—firing off SOS signals for truant members to hustle back — tried to reach final adjournment today through a maze of parliamentary tangles.

The drive to end the 1962 session Friday night collapsed when the House had to quit because it fell 14 short of the 218 members needed to provide a quorum.

This was the first time such a thing had happened in that body since 1945.

Both Senate and House had been in recess most of Friday afternoon and evening while their leaders tried desperately in cloakroom huddles to clear away the last roadblocks.

Veteran attaches at the Capitol called it the most bizarre windup attempt in memory.

Aid To Cuba Costs Soviet Million Daily

Military Part Put At 200 Million For Year, Martin Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union's assistance to Cuba—military and otherwise—is now costing Russia about $1 million a day, says assistant Secretary of State Edwin A. Martin.

The military aid part of it, he said, is running at the rate of $200 million for this year.

Also, he asserted, the State Department estimates that Russia will have a $50 million to $70 million trade deficit with Cuba as well as supplying long-term economic aid this year of up to $50 million.

But, Martin declared, this Russian help "is probably just about enough" to keep Cuba's "head above water—at a relatively low level."

In a CBS radio interview Friday, Martin said: "We estimate the Cuban people are getting about 25 per cent less income than they did before Castro (assumed power). This will not do more than keep them at that level as far as we can see at the present time."

He predicted that the Soviet bloc's financial burden in Cuba would grow heavier after the United States clamps penalties on foreign shipping tied up in the Communist-Cuba trade.

The penalties—understood to be imposed next week—are expected among other things to deny U.S. cargoes to ships and shipping companies involved in carrying supplies to Castro from Communist countries.

"We feel insofar as they (the Communist countries) are unable to charter Allied shipping and other shipping for use in trade going to Cuba they will have to do what obviously is more expensive; namely, use their own shipping, which is not always suited to this particular trade," said Martin.

State Department's Latin American affairs chief.

Meanwhile, the United States has in effect warned all maritime powers that vessels in the Cuban trade run some risk of attack by anti-Castro raiders.

Storm, Gale Kill 36 On West Coast

Howling Wind Of Over 100 MPH Cuts Path Of Devastation

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A howling storm with wind gusting to more than 100 miles an hour left at least 26 persons dead and a broad band of devastation along the West Coast today.

That made the two-day toll of 35 killed by successive storms, with 13 dead, 11 in California, 8 in Washington and 3 in British Columbia.

National Guard units and all available police were on duty in the Portland area to curb looting, which began after the wind smashed hundreds of store windows Friday.

Portland was virtually paralyzed. Most power and telephone lines were broken by winds that sent signboards sailing, knocked down thousands of trees, tore the roofs off scores of buildings and blew in countless windows.

The city sprawled in darkness Friday night, and residents holed up in their homes, fearful of flying debris outside.

It was the same along the Oregon coast and in a number of Oregon communities up the Willamette Valley in western Oregon.

The storm was felt from northern California to British Columbia, but Oregon caught the worst of it.

"It was probably the biggest disaster that Oregon ever had," said Gov. Mark Hatfield, who declared a state of emergency and alerted the National Guard. Some guard units went on active duty in the Willamette Valley. Hatfield wired President Kennedy alerting him to the possibility Oregon may ask for federal disaster aid.

The worst was over. Winds were diminishing and the Weather Bureau said winds of only 25 to 30 miles an hour were expected on the coast today.

Oregon Public Utility Commissioner Jonel Hill estimated it will take at least four days to repair utility lines.

A fire broke out in Junction City, Ore., about 100 miles south of Portland, and two square blocks were leveled. Damage was estimated at $400,000.

In Astoria, at the mouth of the Columbia River—where the storm apparently centered—a fish cannery was flattened.

The peak force of the wind at Portland was not measured. Power lines were knocked out at the Weather Bureau wind-measuring equipment registered 80 miles an hour before going out of operation. Experienced weather observers estimated the gusts at well over 100 m.p.h.

They were measured at 120 m.p.h. at a station on the northern Oregon coast. Mt. Tamalpais in California, just north of San Francisco, registered 121 m.p.h.

Hundreds of streets were blocked by toppled trees. U.S. 101, a major north-south highway, was blocked by downed redwood trees between Eureka and Crescent City, Calif.

The Pacific Northwest Bell Telephone Co. said its repair bills alone will mount to $400,000 or more.

Shipping disasters were avoided, although at one time there were boats adrift at Seattle, Portland and a number of smaller ports.

Injured Boy Critical

LISBON — Kenneth Dixon, 17, of Elkton, injured in an auto mishap that claimed the driver's life, remains in "critical" condition at Clay County Hospital at St. Louis. He regained consciousness several times but is suffering from concussion and shoulder injuries, according to his mother, Mrs. Harold Dixon, who is at his bedside. He is a senior at Beaver Local High School.

EMERGENCY TEST BEGINS. The first "victim" of a simulated explosion at Lisbon McKinley School is carried into the emergency room at City Hospital this morning in a test at three county hospitals to determine how well personnel can handle a mass tragedy. Thirty "victims" from Lisbon were brought to City Hospital in emergency vehicles while 40 others were sent to Salem City Hospital and Central Clinic. The experiment was conducted by the Columbiana County Medical Society with the co-operation of Al Rutecki of Lisbon, county Civil Defense director. Dr. Wade A. Bacon of Lisbon is chairman of the medical society's committee on disaster medical care.

Action Slated On Bonds For Ceramic Site

Revenue From Lot Due To Retire Debt Over 12-Year Span

Council is scheduled to act Monday night on an ordinance to convert into 12-year bonds the $60,000 in notes issued about a year ago to finance construction of a metered municipal parking lot on the site of the former Ceramic Theater.

The legislation provides that the bonds will be retired with $5,000 annual payments from the lot's meter revenues.

It's standard procedure in such case. The city first issues notes to obtain funds for a project, then within a year or so sells bonds, using the proceeds to retire the notes. As the ordinance phrases it, the notes were "issued in anticipation of the issuance of bonds" to finance the lot project.

The city acquired the old Ceramic Theater and its site for $45,000 on Sept. 1, 1961, from heirs of the Tallman Estate. Razing the old building cost another $10,000. The Chamber of Commerce contributed $5,000 toward the project, which included leveling and blacktopping the site and installing meters.

Negotiations to purchase the building and convert the site date back to January 1961, when the city first opened discussions with the owners.

Council will consider another (Turn to COUNCIL, Page 3)

Heights Woman Hurt When Struck By Auto

A Pleasant Heights woman was hurt slightly when struck by a car on Broadway late Friday.

Police said Mrs. Joyce Sylvies, 39, of 1234 Cora St. suffered a bruised right hip when hit by a car operated by Germano Rodriguez, 1524 Ohio Ave., Industry.

Rodriguez was to supply police with details of the accident later today. Preliminary reports indicated he was parking when his foot slipped off the brake and struck the gas pedal with the car hitting Mrs. Sylvies, a pedestrian.

Soviet Ships Set To Snoop On U.S. Test

HONOLULU (AP)—Three Russian ships bristling with electronic instruments have moved inside the Johnston Island test area, presumably to snoop on the United States' rocket-borne nuclear blast scheduled for Sunday night.

A spokesman for Joint Task Force 8, conducting the test, said the missile range ships—the Sibir, Suchan and Sakhalin—appeared two days ago on the western fringe of the U.S. restricted area.

The ships are moving in a southeasterly direction, headed toward a point southwest of Hawaii.

U.S. Navy patrol planes notified the ships they were inside the zone, a task force spokesman said, but the Russians "manifested little concern."

Because the U.S. nuclear test zone is in international waters, the United States cannot force the Russian ships to leave.

The United States plans to explode the equivalent of less than a million tons of TNT—"submegaton"—at an altitude of 30 to 40 miles on Sunday night.

Over Automatic Election

European Cardinals Put Snag In Council Session

VATICAN CITY (AP)—European cardinals brought the first working session of the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council to an abrupt close today with a swift move to head off what one informant called automatic election to the council's commissions.

The meeting of the 2,700 council fathers in St. Peter's Basilica lasted only an hour, half of it taken up by Mass. The fathers were supposed to have started voting for 160 members of 10 working commissions which will debate the far-ranging issues Pope John XXIII has listed to be studied.

But a communique issued after the meeting said the council fathers, without starting to vote, agreed to a motion to adjourn until Tuesday in order to give council participants a chance to acquire "a better knowledge of the candidates."

3 Or 4-Day Stay Slated At Capital

Problems Of High Interest To Both Nations On Agenda

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The United States announced today that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany will visit the United States next month at President Kennedy's invitation.

The announcement came while Kennedy was in Pittsburgh on a stumping tour which will take him into Indiana and Kentucky before the day ends.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy invited Adenauer "to meet with him to discuss problems of mutual interest between the United States and the Federal Republic of Germany."

Adenauer accepted and will arrive in Washington Nov. 7, Salinger announced.

It was understood that Adenauer will remain for two or three days. Kennedy reportedly feels the time is opportune for a personal discussion with the West German leader of the problems facing the Western alliance.

Kennedy sent a personal letter to Adenauer a few weeks ago, but the contents were not disclosed. The invitation reportedly was extended more recently.

This will be Adenauer's second journey to Washington since Kennedy became president. The first was last November.

The traveling White House declined to go into any details on the "problems of mutual interest." There have been increasingly frequent reports, however, that the United States expects a more severe crisis in Berlin.

These reports have accompanied repeated statements in Moscow and accounts from other Iron Curtain countries that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev is determined to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

Johnson Due For Hancock Tour Oct. 26

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson is scheduled to visit Hancock County Oct. 26 as the latest entry in a parade of Democratic luminaries campaigning for Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey of Clarksburg.

Robert P. McDonough, West Virginia state Democratic chairman, said the vice president will tour a part of the 1st Congressional District that day.

Johnson is to make a major political address in either Chester or Newell at an American Legion post in one of the communities. His tour will also include a visit to Weirton Steel Co.'s tin mills, with a luncheon and a noon rally to follow in Parkersburg.

McDonough said the vice president is appearing in behalf of Rep. Bailey, who is seeking election as 1st District congressman in the Nov. 6 general election against Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr. (R) of Glen Dale.

Other Democratic leaders who have appeared in the 1st District in support of Bailey, 78-year-old veteran from the old 3rd District, included President Kennedy, House Speaker John W. McCormack, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and former President Harry S. Truman.

35 At County Legion Event

LISBON — Thirty-five attended the Columbiana County American Legion council meeting Friday evening at the Salineville Post 442. Bert Keck of Glenmoor Post 736, first vice commander, presided.

John Bender of Post 244 at East Sparta, 10th District Gift for Yanks chairman, reported the Department of Ohio needs $35,000 this year to carry on its expanded program, an increase of $10,000. The program provides gifts and cigarettes for the hospitalized veterans at Christmas.

Herman Zeppernick of Post 56 at Salem, county Legion Civil Defense chairman, reported on attending the Civil Defense School at Battle Creek, Mich., recently. He said two Civil Defense exercises are scheduled for Columbiana County. The first a simulated bombing or explosion today, to learn how fast the injured may be evacuated to nearby hospitals, and a shelter program exercise later. He urged all posts to back the Civil Defense program.

The council donated $20 to the United Cerebral Palsy fund and $25 to the gifts for the Yanks who gave the program.

Dwight Bush of Post 574 of North Georgetown, district first vice commander, urged posts to make an all-out drive for membership.

The program will be carried in the local area on WTRF-TV, Channel 7 in Wheeling, and county residents may make contributions by phone.

Persons residing in the Chester-Newell areas may contribute by calling 385-1345. Weirton-New Cumberland residents are to call 748-0810.

Garraway, former NBC television personality, will be master of ceremonies. The "Four Freshmen" is a nationally-known vocal and instrumental group. Other entertainers will take part.

Chester TV Cable Snagged By Crane

Two poles and about 200 feet of television cable of the C. & S. Television Co. of Chester were damaged Friday when the raised boom of a construction company's truck hooked the cable on 6th St. and Rose Alley.

The truck also hooked onto a telephone line, at 6th St. and Carolina Ave., causing the line to sag for about a block east on Carolina Ave.

The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. was called to repair the line.

The truck, owned by the Knowlton Construction Co. and driven by Richard Abbott, both of Bellefontaine, hooked onto the lines after leaving the new school construction site.

Patrolman Frank Fetty investigated. Damage was estimated at $50 to the television cable and the two bent two-inch poles.

There are known to be about 40,000 kinds of fish, more than twice as many species as all mammals, birds, amphibians, and reptiles together.

Car Struck Twice Within Three Hours

An East Liverpool youth discovered Friday night that trouble comes double when the car he was driving was struck in the rear twice within three hours.

The Lisbon State Highway Patrol, which also investigated two other traffic mishaps, said a 1962 sedan driven by Roger S. Vincent, 16, of R. D. 2 was hit each time as he slowed for traffic.

The first accident was at 7:15 p.m. on Route 7 almost six miles south of Rogers. Vincent was headed south in the car owned by his father, Shirl Vincent, when hit in the rear by a car driven by Gilmer Smith, 45, of Rogers R. D. 1.

At 10:20 p.m. he was hit in the rear by another car driven by Russell M. Custer, 42, of 222 W. 7th St., on Route 30 at the intersection of County Rd. 430 at Cannons Mills. Vincent again had stopped for traffic, officers said.

Both Smith and Custer were arrested for failure to stop in the assured clear distance. Minor damage resulted to the rear of the Vincent car in the first accident while the second added to it, officers said.

Cars driven by Karen M. Winters, 19, of Darlington and Robert C. Kile, 47, of Marietta were involved in a crash on Route 7 almost a mile south of Rogers Friday night at 10:20.

Officers said Kile rounded a curve left of center, struck the Winters car and then hit a guard-rail. He was cited for reckless operation.

Diane Marshall of Darlington R. D. 2, a passenger in the Winters car, suffered a bruised right elbow.

Cars driven by Dorothy A. Hoffman, 39, of Lisbon R. D. 4 and Richard Kuhns, 36, of 534 E. Chestnut St., Lisbon, collided on Route 172 a mile west of Route 30 in the Guilford Lake area at 7 p. m.

Both were headed north and Kuhns started to pass the Hoffman car and she then started a left turn into a private driveway. She was cited for making an improper left turn, the patrol said.

Hearing Continued For 4 In Tavern Case

Ida Infanti, co-owner of the Starlight Cafe, 1307 Main St., Wellsville, and Helen M. Brown, a barmaid, are charged with the sale of high-powered beer to minors.

Carl Minor Jr., 30, of Hanoverton R.D. 1 and John Aykers, 20, of 813 Lincoln Ave., East Liverpool, also are charged.

An average of about 30 million Americans, or about nine million families, change their addresses every year. Most of these moves take place within the same county or state, but six million moves are across state lines.

50 At Event For Minister

A reception was held Friday evening for the Rev. Delbert Miller, new pastor of the Salineville Assembly of God Church, and his wife and family, in the cafeteria of the Salineville High School. About 50 attended.

They were presented gifts. Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Mrs. Orpha Skinner and Mrs. Jessie Boais.

The Ladies Civic Club will sponsor a style show at a meeting Tuesday evening in the cafeteria at the high school.

Mrs. Bea Hazlett, president, will preside and refreshments will be served by Mrs. Nina Melhorn, Mrs. Joyce Leek and Mrs. Edith Beadle.

Homer Smith, president of the Ruritan Club, announced that the club will sponsor the annual Halloween parade Oct. 31.

The parade will form at 7 p. m. at St. Patrick's Catholic Church and go to Orr's Service Station and return to the fire station where doughnuts and cider will be served.

Prizes will be given for best costumes and floats. Merchants and organizations are urged to enter floats, Smith said. Orville Tolson and Howard Ahlborn head the committee.

Stainless steel can be rolled into strips thinner than a human hair. A stack of 1,000 pieces would be only about one inch thick.

Moore Due In Hancock

Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr. of Glen Dale is scheduled to carry his campaign to Northern Hancock County communities Thursday after a major political address in Weirton Tuesday night.

The 39-year-old Republican legislator is slated to visit New Cumberland, Pughtown and Newell and speak at a party rally in the evening at Chester.

Rep. Moore, West Virginia's only GOP member in either the House or Senate for the past four years, is in a sizzling political contest with Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey, Democrat, of Clarksburg.

Both Rep. Moore and Rep. Bailey, 78, are seeking the congressional seat from the 1st District in the Nov. 6 general election.

They were pitted by the enlargement last year of the 1st District to include counties from Bailey's old 3rd District.

James M. Ravoir of Weirton, chairman of Hancock County's Republican Executive Committee, said the official schedule for Rep. Moore's visit next week in the Northern part of the county will be announced later.

Rep. Moore was originally slated to appear in the Chester-Newell areas Tuesday night, but this was postponed to Oct. 18 because of campaign activity in Wheeling.

Cpl. Valerie Dodds has been assigned as the new Woman Marine recruiter for the Tri-State area with headquarters in Pittsburgh.

She is the first woman recruiter assigned to the area since 1959.

Cpl. Dodds will visit high schools throughout the area to acquaint girls with the Marine program. Information may be obtained by writing her at the Old Post Office Building, Pittsburgh 19, or by contacting Gunnery Sgt. Edward Rutan, local recruiter, who visits the City Hall office twice a week.

A native of Lakewood, Cpl. Dodds enlisted in the Woman Marines in 1959. After completion of recruit training, her assignments included duties with the Women Officer Candidate program and the Non-Commissioned Officers Leadership School at Quantico, Va. Before being assigned to the Pittsburgh office, she served at the Educational Center at Quantico.

Before passing it, however, leaders plan to have the House amend it to restore some public works projects for Oregon and other states which were knocked out earlier in the Senate-House conference on the legislation.

The Senate then will have to act on only two bills—the public works money measure and a $2.4 billion public works authorization bill agreed on Friday.

This authorization measure, containing projects for all parts of the country, had been the stumbling block to adjournment. But the dispute over it ended Friday, with Senate agreement to eliminate about eight major projects the House adamantly opposed.

The House then promptly passed the compromise version.

Farm Bureau Sets Election

LISBON — Columbiana County Farm Bureau Board of Directors began election preparations when it met Thursday evening in the bureau offices with Allan G. Chamberlain of Leetonia R.D. 2, president, presiding.

Frank Murray of Lisbon R. D. 4 presented a slate for nomination on the board for a two-year period and they will be elected at the annual meeting Nov. 10 at Crestview High School after a dinner at 7.

Galen Greenisen, policy development chairman, is preparing resolutions sent in by groups and they will be voted on at the annual meeting.

Traffic safety contest winners in the county were announced. Fairfield Harvesters, Columbiana Cultivators and Salem Center were winners. Honorable mention went to High Neighbors and Salem Township No. 3. They will receive the awards at the annual meeting. Wendell Waller of Urbana, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau, will be speaker.

Fourteen Columbiana County youths will also attend the Northeast Youth conference Oct. 20 at Ravenna. There will be a talent contest with two entries from Columbiana County, according to Mrs. Hoopes, organization director.

piece of legislation calling for appointment of a three-member Equalizing Board in connection with the second Fisher Park sanitary sewer project, a comparatively small job completed earlier this year.

The work cost about $10,000 to $12,000. The Equalizing Board, whose members will be designated by Council, will equalize the assessment for the project among the owners of benefited properties.

Legislation also may be presented authorizing the administration to call for bids on a hospital and life insurance plan for city employees and their dependents, based on specifications drafted by a special Council committee.

The committee reported at the meeting Oct. 1 its investigation had proceeded to the point where the city might call for offers from insurance companies. Under the plan, insurance would be provided for 100 full-time employees. The city's cost is estimated at about $1,000 a month.

Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper said he does not expect any legislation will be presented in connection with the proposed improvement of St. Clair Ave. from Princeton Ave. to the city limits. A petition still is in circulation among property holders agreeing to pay an assessment of not over $10 a front foot for a 35-foot-wide street of reinforced concrete.

Councilmen said earlier they will proceed with the project if a petition is presented representing at least 51 per cent of the abutting property.

In addition, no legislation is anticipated Monday on a new shopping district street lighting system, which would be financed by owners of abutting property. Merchants presented the petition to Council Oct. 1.

At Monday's session, Engineer George S. Blomgren is expected to report a study shows sufficient frontage is represented to proceed with the project. It calls for 58 new four - light fluorescent fixtures, boosting the volume of illumination more than 700 per cent.

Property holders will pay about $7,000 annually to finance the cost. If Council accepts the engineer's report, it will clear the way for presentation of enabling legislation at the next session.

Third and final reading is scheduled on a resolution authorizing Cooper to employ special counsel to aid in filing an appellate court case seeking to forestall a vote on the city income tax at the Nov. 6 general election.

It was given first reading, 5-2, on Sept. 17 and second reading, 4-2, at the Oct. 1 meeting.

Council had been scheduled tentatively to confer with Ohio Valley Gas Co. officials, continuing negotiations on a rate boost sought by the company, but the firm since has postponed the discussion.

Gas Advances Told To Lions

Suitcase-size fuel cells to supply all home power needs, jet engines three times as efficient as 10-times larger conventional gas compressor engines and remote control systems that can operate all gas compressor stations from a single control panel were among the scientific advances made by gas industry research described to the Lions Club Friday noon at the Travelers Hotel.

Miss Joan Ziegler of Columbus, public relations representative of the Ohio Valley Gas Co., related the advances and traced the history of natural gas in Ohio.

The Columbia Gas System, Inc., parent company of Ohio Valley, pioneered the effort to successfully harness jet thrust for stationary power.

Miss Ziegler described the fuel cell, an energy conversion device, as having the potential to some day provide power right in the home for all household needs from a package about the size of a suitcase.

She was introduced by Miss Betty Newton, home economist for the local office of the utility. Edgar Shingler was program chairman. James Johnston, president, presided.

It was announced that the fifth degree will be given at the Yellow Creek Grange Hall tonight by a Stark County Grange team.

Mrs. Guy Frantz, lecturer, presented the program, on the theme "Columbus Day." Morlan, Carl Bailey, Clifford Aiken took part in reading a poem, "The Boy that Loved Maps." Mrs. McPherson gave a reading, "Did Columbus Really Discover America?" A poem by Guy Frantz, "Columbus," and a contest was held by members by making the largest list of words from Christopher Columbus. There was group singing.

Mrs. Frantz reported entering a "feature file" project conducted by the State Grange.

Next meeting is Oct. 24 at the Grange Hall.

that Cardinal Lienart declared not all the suggested candidates were well known to all bishops.

Many bishops were reported planning to assemble tonight in national groups to discuss candidates they would like to see on the commissions.

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, French-born dean of the College of Cardinals, presided at the opening session, which the Pope did not attend.

The council fathers will meet again Tuesday, presumably to start voting for members of the commissions.

The voting was to have ended Oct. 20, but it now appeared likely that it would last longer and that actual council debates would not get under way until late this month.

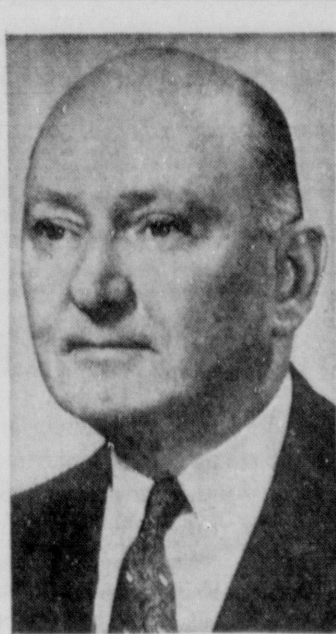

The Pope has said he cannot estimate how long the council will last, and many think it will go on for a year or more.

The working session was closed to the public, but non-Catholic observers invited here by the Vatican were allowed to attend. Among them were two bearded archmandrites sent by the Moscow Patriarchate of the Russian Orthodox Church.

The commissions, when formed, will prepare the topics to be discussed by the council fathers in full assembly.

"We are going to modernize many things, but that doesn't mean we will change them completely," said Bishop Gennaro Prata of La Paz, Bolivia, as the council fathers opened their first working session.

Competition Is Spice Of Price

When Kaiser Steel Corp. recently reduced prices at its Fontana, Calif., works, spokesmen for other steel makers made guarded statements.

The gist of what they had to say was this blunt promise: We aim to meet competition. By this they meant that if Kaiser Steel tried to twist business away from its competitors with reduced prices it would find its competitors battling for their rights.

This is the American competitive system. This is what Americans are trying to preserve. This is part of the American way of life. This is why Americans were astonished last spring when it appeared for a time as if the steel industry intended to follow the lead of major producers and raise prices to make itself more competitive with foreign producers. That was the non sequitur of a business generation.

Those who insisted the steel industry had a right to make its own decisions, without interference from Washington, couldn't help but wonder how this decision had been reached. It was a relief when some of the smaller producers broke ranks and refused to go along with a price boost at a time when prices were being knocked down in competitive selling.

Now comes a second surprise to match Kaiser Steel's cut—an Allegheny Ludlum cut in the base price on certain grades of stainless plates and sheets, plus cuts in certain charges on the same items.

Again the response elsewhere in the industry is to the effect that prices will remain competitive. Stainless producers will battle for their share of the market. No victories will be conceded by default. The new cuts will be "studied," promises Republic Steel. U.S. Steel and Armco will "study" prices too—a steel industry euphemism for getting ready to deliver an economic counter-punch.

People old enough to remember when the United States made itself strong by figuring out ways to give consumers more for less instead of more for more are encouraged. This is the way the country was built.

They Jumped In And Drove Away

The American Medical Association has blasted fat-headedness in dieting, which strikes us as the kind of thing it does better than looking for socialist spoils.

It says in its best professional manner that the anti-cholesterol food fad is a wasteful, dangerous effort and it disposes peremptorily of the popular belief that animal fats are a prime cause of heart attacks.

This belief has given fits to elements of the food industry whose products were affected by the ominous warnings issued by advertisers of competing products. The medical profession itself never has been in strong agreement on this point and probably never can be for the simplest of all reasons.

It's impossible to pick out one substance and say it is the cause of coronary disease. That would be absurd oversimplification.

It isn't possible to pick out specific causes in anything as complex as what happens when a human being's heart goes sour. But significantly it is possible to pick out one thing that people don't do that is giving them more trouble than they need to endure.

People don't exercise their bodies. They fool with diets and pills but they avoid everyday activities such as ordinary walking that would keep them in trim. They wouldn't think of keeping a horse or a dog without giving it a chance to move about. But they see nothing wrong in keeping themselves penned up as if they were being fattened like beef steers, Strasburg geese and Thanksgiving turkeys.

Anyone want to bet the A.M.A. doctors who blasted the anti-cholesterol madness didn't jump in a car and drive away afterward, just like millions who wish they knew what to do to keep their arterial plumbing from getting clogged up from lack of circulation that in many cases comes from lack of plain ordinary exercise.

We Can Hope For The Best

The United States is in a curious position on Cuba in the United Nations. It must deny everything Cuban complainants say about it while hoping that most of what they say is true.

Officially, the United States feels it must be part of a solid American front for facing common American problems. Officially, it feels it must modify its feelings about Communist infiltration of Cuba to avoid giving other Latin American governments a fresh excuse for talking about "intervention."

Contrary to hit-'em-in-the-jugular actionists who would pay no attention to the opinion of other American governments, the Kennedy administration is solicitous of American good will. It knows it cannot ask its neighbors to forget their antipathy to "gunboat diplomacy." It knows Castro has no friends in Latin America and will make none unless he can cast himself in the role of martyr.

This he cannot do while the United States abstains from going after him in earnest. Unless it closes for the kill, Castro can have the privilege of expiring in the grim fashion of all political pawns in the game of power politics — an inch at a time.

So much for the grand strategy of dealing with the communist enclave in the New World. But strategy requires patience. It's tactics that fascinate the United States more than strategy. They require action.

It is secretly to be hoped that all the allegations made by Cuba in the United Nations are true — that the United States is carrying on a naval blockade, that it is practicing Cuban subversion, backing another invasion, only a more successful one than the Bay of Pigs fiasco, and violating Cuba's tattered sovereignty in all the underhanded ways invented by a thousand years of research in the slippery art of toppling governments.

The thought of the tactics that might be successful makes the patience required by the strategy so much easier to endure!

Volunteered Volumes

Learning comes not just from books. But books in a school program provide needed information, literature, understanding, background material and inspiration which make up the hard core of education.

Southern Local School District's campaign to enlarge its library facilities at Salineville High School through contributions is not just a drive to get 1,000 books to meet state standards.

Parents and teachers everywhere know the value of a well-supplied library in school or community as a storehouse for the fundamentals of educational enrichment.

It is hoped that those in the Southern Local District or elsewhere who have books to offer will notify the administrators at Salineville.

Those residing where libraries have been long established sometimes overlook their importance and the hard work involved in creating and maintaining them. Those in Southern Local may well note the words of Augustine Birrell: "Libraries are not made; they grow," and "Good as it is to inherit a library, it is better to collect one."

By Truman Twill

of ruffles on their little organdie skirts before appearing the next night.

What they looked like after the ruffles had been added were an equivalent number of bolts of cloth being agitated by some inner mechanism whose nature had better be left to the imagination.

A great deal of that sort of thing went on at that time. The idea died hard that females should be covered from top to toe like Turkish ladies and that otherwise society would go careening into a sulphurous abyss of sinful decadence.

The coverup was a fearful and wonderful thing—long underwear, long stockings, pull-over sweaters, high-top shoes, stocking caps, gloves with gantlets, heavy mufflers.

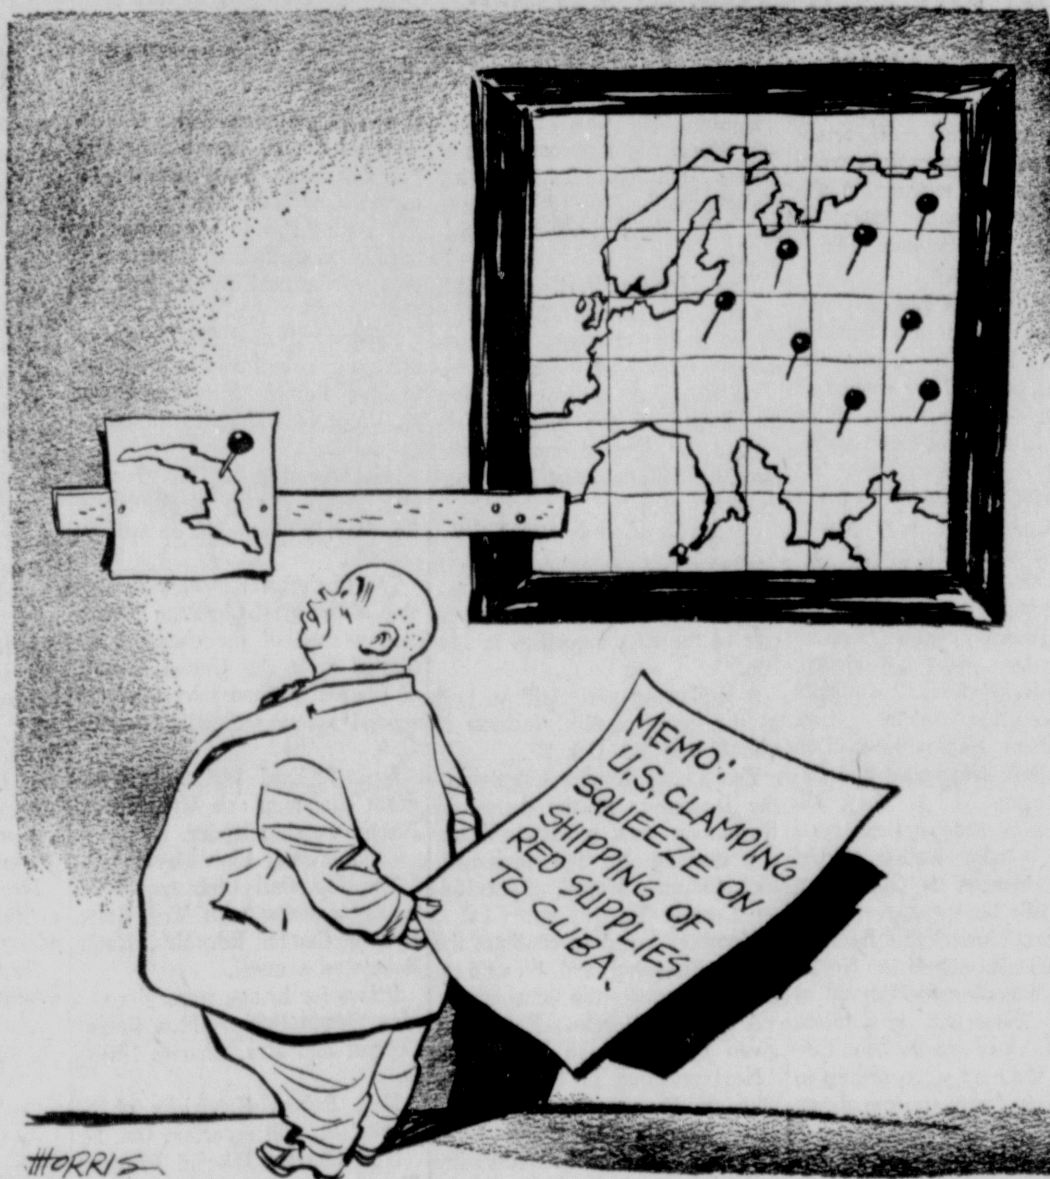

I've hashed it over with other survivors of this suffocating surplus of clothing and we've agreed it had its origin as much in the necessity of keeping warm as in the necessity of keeping temptation discreetly veiled from prying eyes. Central heating was just becoming popular.

There never was anyone who claimed even then that there was anything sexy about a boy's knee. You couldn't be sure about a girl's knee, of course, because no one ever saw a girl's knee, except a doctor.

When the R.H.S. basketball girls broke out of those black saten bloomers, we boys were fascinated. As far as we had known until then, the darned fools used stiffs to keep them off the floor. Imagine! Knees!

We finally got used to them. Used to them? We became callous about them. As an old-timer was saying the other day about short dresses and what happens when their wearers sit down, "Ho-hum."

Trouble In The Branch Office

GOP Prospects Rise In New York

By RAYMOND MOLEY

In these brown October days, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller occupies the happy position of a man who would have to work hard to lose reelection. The Democrats have worked with intense energy to assure Republican success. And as only a minor irritant to Rockefeller and Sen. Jacob Javits there is only a cloud no wider than a fanatic's mind. The latter is a group which has created a so-called Conservative party designed to draw protest votes against the Rockefeller-Javits ticket.

In the last two or three decades I have been struck by a weakness in the liberal-controlled Democratic party which may well prove fatal.

It is an affinity for mediocrity. As liberalism has waxed, the quality of its personnel has waned.

The basic reasons for this are too detailed to discuss here but fine examples are presented in the candidates chosen at the Democratic convention to run for governor and United States senator.

There has prevailed for several years a bitter conflict within the Democratic party.

On the one hand there are the time-tested regulars who have held party posts for a long time, some of whom were in the metropolitan organizations roughly and inaccurately called Tammany Democrats. They were not worse but somewhat better than those who preceded them over the long years.

WITH THE RISE of a so-called Liberal party in New York, certain ultra-liberals such as former governor and senator, Herbert Lehman, Eleanor Roosevelt and Mayor Robert Wagner created what they called a "reform" movement designed to uproot the hardy perennials.

This drive succeeded last year in reelecting the bumbling mayor despite the conviction of the old timers that Wagner lacks the capacity requisite for the job.

The "reformers" in their success even changed the hallowed name Tammany Hall. In the selection of a candidate for governor this year, pickings were very slim indeed and the paucity of material was further complicated by the liberals' determination to have someone who subscribed to all the tenets of their welfare state.

They discarded tests of experience and proved capacity and decided, as if so often done these days, to nominate a man because he bore the name of a well known father and grandfather.

Robert Morgenthau, the appointed victim, is the son of Roosevelt's secretary of the treasury and grandson of a former ambassador to Turkey, a Democratic fundraiser extraordinary several decades ago.

SINCE IT WAS clear even to the Morgenthau supporters that their man could not help himself, he was sent posthaste to get help from the Kennedys. Then on his return he attacked Rockefeller because of an alleged "secret" intention to raise taxes if reelected.

This is dangerous business in politics because there can be no record to probe a secret known only to its progenitor. Rockefeller denied it and then Morgenthau's partner on the Democratic ticket, two-term state comptroller, Arthur Levitt, said there was nothing to prove Morgenthau's mind reading. Beyond that bit of news the Morgenthau candidacy has stirred hardly a leaf in the political grove.

The conservatives' protest can hardly be taken seriously by people of common sense who believe in two-party government. It is true that Rockefeller's place in the ideological spectrum is a number of notches further toward liberalism than Sen. Goldwater's, but not far enough to rank him with most Democratic governors.

His dedication to fiscal responsibility is proved by his record as governor. His policies have attracted a considerable amount of new business to New York.

In 1962, unlike 1958, he is running as a straight Republican candidate. He and his colleagues on the ticket, including Sen. Jacob Javits, are running as a "one for all and all for one" Republican "team." The alleged conservatives look a bit ridiculous since the prospective beneficiary of their protest is Robert Morgenthau.

IT'S TRUE that Sen. Javits' voting record is that of a very liberal Republican. But it is more conservative than 47 of his Democratic colleagues there.

As one conservative New York Republican said recently: "When I ask for my favorite Glencairn's Special Scotch at a package store and they don't have it I am not going to stop drinking. I shall vote for Javits as a better conservative than the man he is running against."

These irreconcilable people are violating the very basis of the conservative tradition, which is the art of the possible. They may take two or three hundred thousand from Rockefeller's majority but not enough to prevent the New York governor from being a strong prospect for the Republican nomination in 1964.

Down Through The Years

Rothschild Vigor

Under the direction of Baron Guy de Rothschild of France, the ancient Rothschild family of legendary wealth and power is showing new vitality in European political and financial circles.

The Rothschilds today are backing the European Common Market with the same enthusiasm their ancestors supported Europe's kings and emperors, and the French and British branches of the family — which broke off business relations 53 years ago — have joined anew in a corporation called "Second Continuation, Inc."

This new group, expecting Great Britain to enter the Common Market, is planning to invest in British and continental firms whose products would be exported at cheap prices from England to the continent and from Europe to Britain.

Another family-founded and financed corporation has already obtained a license to operate a proposed two-track railroad in a tunnel underneath the English Channel, linking Britain and France.

Meredith's Error

By David Lawrence

Negro Student Criticizes Troop Service

James H. Meredith, the Negro student now enrolled in the University of Mississippi, seems to have pulled a "boner." He has undertaken by a public statement to tell the United States Army what troops it must use in affording him protection. He argues that there must be a substantial number of Negro soldiers on duty or else he will consider it an injustice to him and to the nation.

Is a student in a university — whose discipline he accepts when he enrolls — privileged to call publicly for certain military forces to be deployed on the university grounds?

Were those troops which had already been mobilized inadequate or inefficient? Or was the issuance of the statement itself a form of political demonstration?

Oddly enough, for a much less serious offense the University of Mississippi was threatened a few days ago with the loss of its accreditation.

If this had happened, every diploma issued would have been worthless as a certificate of admission to a professional or graduate school. The rules of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, with headquarters at Atlanta, Ga., declare that accreditation can be taken away if, for instance, there is a violation of its principles. One of these says that "to keep education free from political manipulation is fundamental to the preservation of liberty."

OFFICIALS of the association explain that they have nothing to do with the admission or of refusal to admit Negro students but that the particular point involved was the recent action of the governing board of the university in turning over to the governor of the state the functions of the university registrar.

The registrar originally had declared that Meredith was not qualified for admission, but the U.S. Department of Justice asked the court to issue an order ignoring the registrar's findings. At this point, the university restored the registrar's functions, so there is no longer any accreditation problem.

The question that now arises is whether the university authorities will sanction political manipulation by any of its students. The attorney general of Mississippi could ask the federal court to uphold the university's right to discipline or dismiss Meredith. For, though officially registered as a student, he issued a public statement which said in part:

"The first two days of my stay at the University of Mississippi, the military units looked like American units. All soldiers held their positions and performed the task for which they had been trained and ordered to do. Since that time, the units have been segregated. Negroes have been purged from their positions in the ranks.

"ON THURSDAY, Oct. 4, 1962, I brought this to the attention of the proper authorities. On Friday, I was informed that the situation would be corrected and the Negroes would be put back into their places in the ranks."

"On Monday, Oct. 8, 1962, Negro soldiers were seen again among the soldiers. The ones I saw, however, were on a garbage detail truck and unarmed. The white members of the detail were armed. This condition constitutes a dishonor and a disgrace to the hundreds of thousands of Negroes who wear the uniforms of our military services."

"Negro soldiers were purged from the ranks 100 years ago in a somewhat similar situation. And today, 1962, this is an intolerable act. My conscience would not allow me to go on observing the situation without, at least, letting the Negro soldiers know that I did not like them being dishonored."

Secretary of the Army Cyrus R. Vance replied by saying that, "during the difficult periods when troops were first employed in the Oxford area, Negro soldiers were not used on patrols to avoid unnecessary incidents. On Oct. 6th when the situation became more stabilized, orders were issued that Negro military personnel of Army units employed in connection with the Oxford situation would be used in the performance of all normal functions in the units in all operations."

THE REAL ISSUE today is whether James Meredith has laid himself open to discipline by the university.

When he called in the press and issued a public statement, he disclosed that he had tried to interfere with the functions that belong to the university authorities — namely, to maintain order on the campus.

He sought on his own, and without consultation with the university, to have federal troops deployed in certain ways and to specify the composition of the military units.

While 30,000 federal troops were mobilized in Oxford and vicinity to assure Meredith's admission, the military forces were not instructed to operate the university. The federal court order merely commands the university to maintain Meredith on a par with any other student. There is nothing in the court order which requires the university to ignore what it may consider a breach of conduct by him or by any other student.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I believe the Ohio Vehicle Code requires all private vehicles to give way to emergency vehicles by pulling to the right and stopping, meaning oncoming traffic as well as traffic traveling in the same direction if the traffic flow is obstructed.

I am wondering if people in this district are ignorant of this fact?

I experienced such thoughtlessness Oct. 6. My husband was suffering from a serious heart condition, an ambulance was called, and oxygen had to be administered en route to City Hospital.

From Beaver Local School all the way to City Hospital the ambulance was not given the right-of-way, although the emergency light was flashing and the siren screaming.

Again on Monday this happened on 5th St. while an ambulance from Midland was bringing a patient to the hospital; he is in the room next to my husband's.

My husband is recovering, but it could have been too late. I hope this letter will make some people stop and think. It could be their husband, wife or member of their family who may need the right of way.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I would first like to say my fether, Councilman Donald Chaney, had no idea I was writing this.

I am 16, and attended my first Chester Council meeting Wednesday night, and can't express how shocked I was to see grown people shouting and squabbling like 2-year-olds. Many people were not below booing, hissing and catcalling.

Few there were for the three Councilmen "on trial." These people begged to be shown what is wrong with Chester. How can they be so blind? Of course it's not out in the open. No, they hid in back rooms and cellars and locked doors.

Many people complained about the 90-day appointments. They say it's not fair, not even Christian, but whose job is secure? Is yours?

In The Review story, Donald Hood's speech was passed over. It didn't mention about the secret meeting held when he was Councilman, or about the investigation after it was found 20 or 30 people in Chester were getting free water, and about the city gasoline used free.

People are comparing the way Council is run to a dictatorship. They don't know what a real dictatorship is.

I spent the summer in Spain which has been under a dictator for the past 25 years. There, speaking as you feel in public carries a prison sentence; their minds can't comprehend a country like ours where everyone does and says as he likes within the law and common sense.

Remember, a city is corrupted the same way an apple goes rotten — slowly and from within, until there is nothing left but a thin false shell, and then finally, only a mess — like Communism.

School Prayer Confusion May Be Cleared Up In '63

By JERRY T. BAULCH

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court may clear up by next July some of the confusion over what prayers, if any, may be said in public schools or whether Bible verses may be read in the classrooms.

Those questions were not answered in last June's historic decision declaring unconstitutional a prayer supplied by state officials for use in New York State public schools. Many people interpreted this as an outright ban on prayer in the schools and it brought one of the angriest public outcries the court has faced in recent years.

A few weeks ago Justice Tom C. Clark departed from the custom of justices not commenting on the court's rulings and expressed dismay at what he called misunderstanding. All the court decided, he said, was that government cannot take part in the establishment of religion. It was a 6-1 decision and Clark joined in the majority view.

The high tribunal agreed this week to tackle once more this emotion-laden issue of separation of church and state. Specifically, the court will hear sometime in the months ahead appeals from two lower court decisions.

One appeal is by Pennsylvania officials from a decision by a three-judge federal court that the state law requiring Bible reading in public schools violates the U.S. Constitution.

The other appeal is by an atheist mother of an atheist son who contends that a Baltimore, Md., school board regulation calling for opening of school each day with Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer is unconstitutional.

Both the Philadelphia and the Baltimore practices have been attacked despite the fact that children are not required to participate. They may be excused with written permission from a parent or guardian.

Mrs. Madalyn E. Murray, whose son William J. Murray III is now in the 11th grade in Baltimore, told the court in her appeal that her son's non-participation in the exercise caused him "loss of caste with his fellows, (the was) regarded with aversion, and subjected to reproach and insult."

The board's rule says "each school, either collectively or in classes, shall be opened by the reading, without comment, of a chapter in the Holy Bible and or the use of the Lord's Prayer. The Douay (Catholic) version may be used by those children who prefer it."

This is somewhat similar to the Pennsylvania law, which reads:

"At least 10 verses from the Holy Bible shall be read without comment at the opening of each public school on each school day. Any child shall be excused from such Bible reading or attending such Bible reading upon the written request of his parent or guardian."

Edward L. Schenck, a Unitarian, living in a Philadelphia suburb, brought the suit on behalf of his children, who attended Abington Township High School.

The answers to these appeals could have a greater impact across the nation than even last June's decision which focused on the New York prayer.

The bride's father was present to give her away. He is Gaetano Ventura, serving a sentence in the same jail for encouraging his daughter to shoot Emanuele because he kept putting off the wedding.

He added: "It is unrealistic to expect a fundamental change in the Roman Catholic doctrine, but there might be a shifting in proportion of basic issues... the council will help if it fully faces up to the things by which the Church of Rome offends the conscience of other Christians."

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

History Can Broaden Child's Mind

The following could make a good discussion at home or school. Between 1300 and 1600, ideas and actions took a great spurt in the then-known world. This period is known as the Renaissance because there was a rapid development in art, literature and science. Columbus lived in the middle of this period (1446-1506). Within five years, Columbus discovered America and Vasco da Gama sailed from Portugal around the southern tip of Africa to India. Magellan traveled in the opposite direction seeking a westward sea route to the Orient and sailed around the world.

Judges will be adults affiliated with the school. A theme of nursery rhymes will be used in the floats.

After the festivities, a dance will be held at the canteen for students as well as alumni. The event is being sponsored by Joseph Chivasta, advisor to the yearbook and the "Rodis" staff. Marie Vranes is committee chairman.

Rayen Edges Potters, 22-14; 4th Period Fumble Costly

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

A costly fourth-period fumble which stopped an East Liverpool drive deep in Youngstown Rayen territory and a 15-yard personal foul penalty which injected new life into a Rayen drive turned into a 22-14 loss for the Potters Friday night.

A homecoming crowd of some 3,000 watched a rock 'em, sock 'em football game that saw the score tied up until 2:10 remaining in the game when the big Rayen team pushed across its winning touchdown and a conversion.

By winning last night's encounter, Rayen now owns a 3-2 record and a three-game win streak. East Liverpool stands 1-4 at the halfway point in the season.

THE POTTERS rallied in the last two minutes when Chuck Baker tossed a pass that Earl Olmstead made a fine grab of when the ball bounced off the hands of a Rayen defender.

The play was good for 32 yards and another 11-yard flip to Randy Stover had the Potters knocking on the touchdown door at the Rayen 24. Baker reached into his bag of passes but failed to complete any of three and a running play on fourth down, which was used as an element of surprise, failed and Rayen took over to run out the last 15 seconds on the clock.

Both teams hit hard and it seemed as the contest grew older that the game would wind up in a deadlock, that's how even it was played.

IN THE POTTOR dressing room after the game, Bob Hed-

Visitors Score Late To Record Win

mond said his Potters "gave 100 per cent but that pass we allowed them (Rayen) to score on in the first quarter, our fumble in the fourth quarter and a few other serious mistakes cost us the victory."

Hedmond said he ordered a halfback trap play on the last play run by the Potters because "the passing wasn't working and we thought we could catch them off guard." The trap play was to Olmstead but he was stopped at the line of scrimmage. Up until that time Baker had tried three passes but all missed the mark by good margins.

Both teams scored in the first period, with Rayen getting the first touchdown. The score at half-time stood 6-6. Rayen went in front 14-8 in the third quarter but before the period ended the Potters had added a touchdown and conversion of their own to tie it up once again.

THE FIRST two touchdowns of the night were a comedy of errors or mistakes turned into six points.

Rayen had a fourth and 12 situation on the Potters 39-yard line. Coach Ralph Robinette was standing on the sidelines going through a punting motion and felt his quarterback Rick Ballentine had understood the signal clearly to punt.

However, Ballentine, who admitted later he did not see the signal, fooled everybody in the stands, including his own coach, and flipped a pass to Roy Winston who went all the way for the touchdown untouched by a Potter defender. The touchdown might have been a mistake but the scoreboard read 6-0 after Winston was stopped on an attempted run for the conversion. The clock showed 7:32 remaining in the first period.

A new play, "the halfback trap" put into the Potter offense just this week, was worked beautifully by Kraft who ripped off a 48-yard run to the Rayen six but East Liverpool failed to score after Rayen held for four downs.

AFTER standing off the Potters, Ernie Paul, a 225-pound fullback ripped off 15 yards but was hit by Bruce Burbick on the Rayen 23. Paul fumbled and Burbick jumped on the loose ball that led to the Potters' first TD.

Kraft and Bowyer moved the ball to the Rayen 17. With a third and four situation, Baker on a spread pass formation in which he lines up eight yards in back of scrimmage, took a bad pass from center. The ball rolled back to him, but he picked it up and shot around the left side and into the end zone. Only 1:05 remained in the first quarter when the Potters scored. Bob Mercer was stopped on his conversion bid.

Neither team got a drive underway in the second quarter as both lines pounded at each other in 12 minutes of hard football. AFTER East Liverpool gave up the second half kickoff with a punt, Rayen, with Lou Averhart almost unstoppable on his slices over the Tigers' unbalanced line to the right, moved 73 yards in 11 plays with Ballentine sneaking over from the one with 4:34 left in the quarter. Ballentine ran the conversion for a 14-8 lead.

The Rayen touchdown enraged the Potters. Halfback Bob Bowyer, who turned in a fine running job in his first starting assignment at fullback, toted for gains of 9, 5, 5 and 3 to move the Potters to the Rayen 36.

A third-down pass from Baker found Olmstead in the open cutting across the 20-yard line and the Potter halfback grabbed the pigskin and hurried into the end zone for the touchdown with 1:09 left in the third quarter.

THE SCORE stood 14-12 with East Liverpool needing the conversion and came up with it when Mercer shot a short swing pass to Tom Kraft who ducked over for the two points to knot the score.

Rayen was forced to punt as the game entered the fourth quarter and the Potters, with "general" Bowyer leading the charge, started a drive that looked like it would end in a touchdown. Bowyer, who only stands about 5 foot 7 and is listed at 160 pounds, began hammering away and in three carries netted 16 yards and a first down to the Rayen 32. On second down, Baker went over the right side but fumbled and Winston recovered on the Tigers' 29.

The bit of bad luck was to go a long way in meaning defeat for the Potters. Ballentine immediately picked up a first down with a rollout to the Rayen 39. In 13 plays, Rayen marched 71 yards but was helped by a very questionable personal foul call on Burbick which occurred on the Rayen 44 and the penalty moved the ball to the Potter 41.

AVERHART ended the long drive when he bolted over the left side for the TD with only 2:10 showing on the clock. Ballentine's run then for the conversion gave Rayen its eight-point margin.

Hedmond praised the running of Bowyer who was the workhorse of the Potter backfield. The junior back picked up 62 yards in 17 carries.

Burbick was a terror on defense with some able assistance from Ron Echols, a linebacker, and end Randy Stover.

Next week the Potters travel to Steubenville to meet sixth-ranked Big Red.

Beavers Fail To Produce Conversions In Loss To Northwestern

Previously undefeated Beaver Local, which had been tramping on thin ice in its last two games, winning by only the margin of a two point conversion, lost its first game of the 1962 season by that same margin in a 22-20 setback at the hands of Northwestern Friday night at Williamsport.

While the loss was the first in five games it also snapped an eight-game winning streak compiled over two seasons.

COACH Jack O'Rourke's team missed its chance for a tie or victory by not scoring conversions after the second and third touchdowns.

plays with Dunlap's 25-yard sprint the key play of the series. The Pennsylvanians moved to the one with Ingram going the final distance for the TD. Ingram then flipped to Ken Eakin for the conversion which eventually proved the difference.

Beaver Local, not to be denied, stayed in the game when a 43-yard pass play from McLaughlin to Gaydos set up the touchdown for Saltzman who carried over from the one late in the second quarter.

McLAUGHLIN was stopped on his attempt for the conversion, a necessity which grew bigger as each second ticked away. The teams left the field at halftime with Northwestern on top 16-14.

The visitors struck again in the third quarter when Ingram hit Sammons with a pass covering 46 yards. A run for the conversion points was stopped.

Beaver Local put on a fourth-quarter drive that saw the Beavers grind out 69 yards with Gaydos going the last three for the six points. The Beavers now had a chance to tie the game but a pass for the conversion from McLaughlin to end Gary Berhar went wide, as Berhar was covered closely by two Northwestern defenders.

The Pennsylvanians intercepted a Beaver Local pass late in the game to end a last-ditch bid for victory by the Beavers.

Beaver Local bounced right back and on the shoulders of George Gaydos, an all-Ohio candidate, and Floyd Saltzman drove 69 yards in 11 plays. Quarterback Jim McLaughlin went the last 20 when he out-stepped defenders to the end zone. Halfback Roger Diddle put the game at an 8-8 deadlock on his run for the conversion.

Murphy Scores 4 In Clippers Win

LEETONIA—Columbiana High's "Fighting Irishman" — halfback Paul Murphy — accounted for four touchdowns in the district's top individual performance of the year as the Clippers spilled Leetonia, 40-22, here Friday night.

The Tri-County League battle saw underdog Leetonia stay strongly in contention for the first half, only to fall victim to Columbiana's explosive power in the second.

UNBEATEN Columbiana racked up its fifth straight win behind a strong second half, during which the Clippers tallied four times to come from behind and keep their skein intact.

The battle had an "all-star" flavor with some of the county's top runners in action for both teams.

But Murphy, the kid with the Shamrock connected name, stole the show with a four-touchdown performance, one coming on a 63-yard run.

LEETONIA's star runner, Paul Conrad, lived up to his billing with two touchdowns, and Columbiana's track star, Jim Ward, also scored.

Conrad ran 19 yards in the first quarter to provide Leetonia with a 6-0 lead, but the Clippers retaliated quickly on Murphy's run of five yards. Murphy ramblled 63 yards in the second quarter, but Leetonia came back to go ahead by halftime on Conrad's four-yard run, and a pass to Nemenz for the conversion. Leetonia led at halftime, 14-12.

The Clippers pulled away in the second and third periods with four touchdowns, while Leetonia managed only one more, that on Al Vignon's four-yard run.

Leetonia's record was evened at 3-3 with the defeat.

Series Imperiled

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—An all-night rain imperiled the already delayed sixth game of the World Series between the San Francisco Giants and New York Yankees today.

Even before the downpour began Friday, the Weather Bureau announced there was a "60 to 70 per cent" chance of rain today with one to two inches expected to fall on already drenched Candlestick Park before scheduled game time.

"It will take four or five days for the field to become perfectly dry even if we had no more rain," said Matty Schwabe Jr., head of the grounds crew.

The sixth game originally was scheduled for Friday, but baseball commissioner Ford Frick called it off at 8:45 a.m.

The rain not only dampened the spirits of the players of both teams who have become bored sitting round in their rooms or hotel lobbies, but even the rival managers were becoming irritated.

Herbert's Toe Kicks Bulldogs To 14-13 Win

The accurate toe of plack-kicker Jerry Herbert helped East Palestine to a 14-13 victory over New Brighton Friday night at the Pennsylvania school.

Herbert's two placements in the first half were the difference in the battle which saw East Palestine pull even for the season with a 3-3 record.

Vince Alcorn of East Palestine hauled the opening kickoff 88 yards for a touchdown, and Herbert followed with a successful placement for an 8-0 lead.

New Brighton retaliated in the same quarter on a 59 yard run by Thomas, and tied the score at 8-8 on Debo's placement. The Lions went ahead in the second quarter on Frick's one-yard plunge. But East Palestine's line blocked the attempted conversion for the biggest play of the game.

The Bulldogs tied the score at 13-13 on Don Herriott's one-yard run from his fullback slot, and Herbert's following placement decided the outcome. The second half was scoreless.

U.S. Golfers Defeat Canada, Retain Cup

By ALAN CLINE

KAWANA, Japan (AP)—American amateur golfers, putting on the pressure in the final 18 holes, retained the Eisenhower Cup Saturday by whipping a surprisingly strong Canadian team by eight strokes over-all in the third World Amateur Golf Team Championship.

Deane Beman, already a veteran at international golf at 24, led the four-man U.S. team in thwarting a Canadian challenge with a brilliant 66 on the difficult par-70 ocean-rimmed Fuji course.

Stanton Notches First Grid Victory Over Springfield

Stanton Local's Red Raiders exacted revenge on the only team to beat them last year by topping arch-rival Springfield, 22-0, Friday night at Springfield.

Coach Don McBride's squad recorded the first gridiron victory in the school's history over Springfield, a foe of long standing that has reigned supreme in athletic battles across the years.

SPRINGFIELD ruined Stanton's bid for an unbeaten season last year, rolling to a 20-8 victory in the mud and rain at the Irondale field.

This time around the Red Raiders came out with a victory, as fullback John Walter Pearson tallied two touchdowns and halfback

Bob Reese added another.

PEARSON ran six yards for Stanton's first touchdown in the opening quarter, and quarterback Scott Porter dashed over with the two-points conversion.

The Red Raiders crossed Springfield's goal twice more in the final quarter on a 28-yard pass from Porter to Pearson and a three-yard run from Reese. End Marlon McCuen caught a pass from Porter for one of the conversions.

STANTON made its first victory over Springfield a decisive one, piling up 215 yards on the ground to 123 by the Flying Tigers. The Red Raiders had a 12-6 edge in first downs.

Big Spires, Brandle and Theron were defensive standouts on Stanton Local's line that blanked Springfield. The win was Stanton's third against a loss and a tie. Springfield is 1-5 for the season.

Akron Hoban Buries Salem By 52-To-13

SALEM — Akron Hoban scored seven touchdowns to bury Salem High's Quakers, 52-13, and inflict the second straight defeat here Friday night.

Hoban registered in every period to beat Salem for the second season in a row. Last year's score was 28-8.

The Akron squad extended its record to 3-2-1, while Salem is now 4-2. The Quakers saw their unbeaten streak snapped last week at Marietta by 30-0-6.

Scoring for Salem last night was Dave Capel, on a 60 yard run, and another of 16 yards. Joe Begalla booted the extra point after Salem had drawn first blood on Capel's long run.

Hoban then scored five straight touchdowns to win handily. Baldacci led the parade with three on runs of 1, 5 and 14 yards.

Tigers Continue In Tailspin By Absorbing 26-12 Loss

Midland Shades Rochester, 12-6, For Third Victory

Wellsville Drops 5th To Madonna

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Wellsville High's crippled Tigers continued in a tailspin Friday night, subdued handily by hard-hitting Weirton Madonna, 26-12, before a crowd of 1,400.

The convincing victory by the invaders spoiled Wellsville's Homecoming celebration, and barring a sudden turnaround in fortunes in the forthcoming weeks, heads the Tigers for a losing season.

Working on the best record in the school's history, Madonna was in command throughout and the final score provides no indication of how one-sided the encounter at Nicholson Stadium actually turned out.

THE VISITORS, squaring off with their soundest club in years against the wounded Tigers, eased to their fourth win after piling up a 26-0 lead.

Wellsville floundered in the throes of despair for three full quarters before striking in the final three minutes for a pair of touchdowns on the air of sub quarterback Mark Leyda.

Three Wellsville regulars were sidelined with injuries for the alumni's big game, and adding further woe to the already serious situation was an injury to another — quarterback Jim Reed.

REED, the fast junior and leading scorer, was slammed back wards against the wire enclosing fence near halftime, and apparently suffered a pinched nerve in an arm. He was out the entire second half.

Wellsville's record sagged to 1-5 and the squad faces the challenge of winning all the rest against Salem, Jefferson Union, Springfield and Beaver Local in order to finish at least even.

If they are forced to continue without the services of Reed, plus halfback Alvin Thompson, fullback Leo Pearson and end Tim Barborak, the chances appear slim indeed if last night's performance is any basis for criteria.

COACH Joe Krivak's Blue Dons (4-2) went winging to an 8-0 lead with only minutes gone in the first quarter as Coach Ken Woods' strategy of starting second liners on defense — a psychological blow at the regulars for a 40-6 defeat at New Philly last week — backfired.

Madonna's Bill Zaneski raced 39 yards on a tricky cross-buck play and went into the end zone untouched. Zaneski cut through a gaping hole in the Wellsville line, cut for the sidelines, and was away like a jet. He bucked over for the conversion, and Wellsville's regular defenders trotted into the game.

The regulars had little more luck than the subs in stopping Madonna's standout halfback, Zaneski, accurately — passing quarterback Stan Zgurski, and fullback Bob Cane, all hard runners.

WITH 3:25 left in the first period, the Blue Dons tallied again on Zgurski's eight-yard pass to Zaneski, who came up with the ball in a scramble with Tiger defender Roger Miller in the corner.

Madonna drove 37 yards in 11 plays for another touchdown with 32 minutes left in the first half. Zgurski capped the march with a bootleg play around left end for a 20-0 lead.

Midway through the third quarter, the score shot to 26-0 on a short buck by Cane over Wellsville's vulnerable left side. The Blue Dons got the scoring opportunity when giant tackle Gene Trosch, 225-pounder, smeared Wellsville's Andy Dash in punt formation at the Wellsville 31 yard line.

PLAYING the second half at quarterback for Wellsville was pint-sized Mark Leyda, who got a chance at his favorite position for the first time of any significance this year.

Although held to short yardage on each attempted run, Leyda turned in an effective game at quarterback despite poor blocking protection by the linemen.

Operating with a taped finger that was damaged in the first half, Leyda proved he could overcome a normally serious handicap for a quarterback with determination and a sense of football savvy.

The wiry youngster fired two scoring passes in the closing minutes and in exhibiting versatility, tossed them both while running to his right — often a difficult maneuver for a southpaw.

LEYDA threw to Dash in the corner for the first score with 2:43 left in the game, and to junior Tom Sayre for another with 55 seconds remaining.

The final scoring pass was probably the most exciting play of the game. Leyda faded back after getting the snap, peddled back some more, was chased to his right and got off the throw while pursued by a host of defenders.

So sure was Madonna that the Tiger quarterback would be thrown for a long loss that the secondary closed in, leaving Sayre all alone in the deep end zone to await the pass.

Woods reports the Tigers in poor physical condition for next week's battle with rugged Salem. In addition to the three injured regulars, several others are still nursing bruises received against New Philly.

New Cumberland Sweeps Aside Rival Newell, 26-6

Coach John Kuzio's Blue Raiders scored once in each period to hand Newell a 26-6 defeat at Phillips Memorial Field in New Cumberland Friday night.

The win was the fourth for New Cumberland while Pete Horosko's Vikings absorbed their fifth loss of the season. The Blue Raiders have dropped two.

New Cumberland started the scoring in the first quarter when Jim Bursky scampered into the end zone from the 9-yard line. Katzenmeyer's placement was not good and New Cumberland led 6-0.

Another tally came in the second period on a 20-yard ramble by Alan Pettit. Katzenmeyer's kick was properly angled through the uprights and New Cumberland land trotted to the dressing room with a 13-0 halftime lead.

Pettit again counted for the Blue Raiders in the third stanza as he went across the goal line from eight yards out to put New Cumberland in front 19-0. The New Cumberland scoring was concluded by Tom Andrews who plunged across from the one-yard line for the final tally. Katzenmeyer tacked on the extra point.

Newell averted a shutout in the fourth period when quarterback Denny Smith hit end Tom Franckez with a pass that covered 58 yards.

Newell sees action again next Saturday when they journey to Stanton Local. New Cumberland takes on winless South Side at the latter's field Thursday. The Newell game was originally scheduled for Friday but has been moved back to Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p.m.

Dallas Blasts Boston, 27-7

BOSTON (AP)—The Dallas Texans bask in the compliments of coach Hank Stram, who calls their 27-7 American Football League victory over Boston "your greatest ever."

Winning their fourth game in five starts and at least temporarily tying Denver for the Western Division lead, the underdog Texans also knocked the Patriots from their share of first place in the Eastern Division Friday night.

Superb pass catching by Chris Burford, Abner Haynes' two touchdowns and a stalwart defense got the job done.

"Stram walked into the Dallas dressing room and told the players:

"You've played some good games in our three years together but this was your greatest ever."

Burford caught nine passes for 140 yards and a score. The yardage was an all-time team high for a receiver and Burford was given the game ball by his mates.

Quarterback Len Dawson completed 16 of 31 passes for 302 yards and two scores—a personal one-game high. Dawson leads the AFL in touchdown passes (13). Burford in scoring passes caught (7) and Haynes in touchdowns (10-6 of them against Boston).

San Diego plays at Buffalo tonight. New York visits Houston's Eastern Division leaders for the televised game Sunday, while Denver, currently tied with Dallas at 4-1 is at Oakland.

to net them their second victory against one defeat and three ties. Chester scored first Friday night after recovering a fumble on its own 40. A 37-yard pass Gary Mayhew to Gary Davis set up the score which saw Kelse Johnson hammering over from the one yard line.

The Panther touchdown came with 3:46 left in the second quarter but Follansbee managed to march 63 yards to score before the first half ended with Ewusiak going seven yards to the end zone.

Follansbee came out in the third quarter and scored twice, one on a 24-yard pass West to Bouyoucas. West went over from the one for the second touchdown of the period.

West and Bouyoucas combined again, this time for a 33-yard aerial, then West ran 29 yards to cap the scoring.

The Midland Leopards had a frustrating first half, but finished strong in the final two quarters to edge the Rochester Rams, 12-6, before 3,000 fans at Rochester Friday night.

The win kept the Leopards in the thick of the Class A title race. Their record is now an even three wins and three losses. It was their second win in Class A competition.

Midland gained 178 yards rushing and 74 passing, while Rochester picked up 162 yards rushing and 14 passing. Midland outgained the Rams in total yardage in the second half, 146-53, after the Ram offense had the better of it in the opening two periods.

Leading Charles Polce's eleven was Art Vaughn. The big fullback returned to his own form of last season and led the Midland ball carriers with 600 yards gained in 10 carries.

Quarterback Jim Peel led the Ram ball carriers with 53 yards in 14 attempts.

Rochester dominated the first period of play, enabling the Leopards to get possession just for one set of downs.

The Rams launched the drive for their lone score of the night in the waning moments of the first period.

It started on the Midland 46-yard line where Rochester received a Midland punt. Rochester covered the 46 yards in eight plays, with the drive running into the second period.

With just one minute gone in the second quarter, halfback Metford Jackson plunged one yard for the first score of the night. End Leo Wolfe's placement try was wide and the Rams led 6-0.

Midland started its scoring drive by taking the opening kickoff to their 26-yard line. Fullback Jesse Torres broke off tackle for eight yards and halfback Mike Krivoshia moved the ball to the 44 in two carries.

After Vaughn picked up three yards, two Miller passes went astray and the Leopards were faced with a punting situation.

On the punt, Rochester was detected holding and that gave the Leopards a first down on the Ram 34.

On a second down play from the Rochester 30, Vaughn took a pitch-out from substitute quarterback Ron Dominici and moved for 10 yards to the 20.

Three plays later Miller found his end Pete Cilli in the open on the 15-yard line and he hit him with a perfect strike. Cilli moved down to the Rochester three where he was forced out of bounds by halfback John Mayo.

When two running plays failed, Miller hit his other end, George Stoffel, with a two-yard scoring toss. Halfback Rich Lake's placement try was blocked by Ram tackle Joe Zupsic.

Both teams threatened once more before the half ended. Rochester's attempt was thwarted when Dominici picked off a Mayo aerial on his four and brought it out to the 24.

Miller hit Lake with a flat pass that covered 24 yards and then moved the ball to the Rochester 19 on two keeper plays. Midland could not get any closer as the clock ended the half.

Midland started the march for the deciding touchdown midway through the third period. Vaughn gathered in a Ram punt on his 32 and returned it to the Rochester 46-yard line.

On the play, however, Midland was detected clipping and they were penalized back to their 38-yard line. Miller lost six on the first play, but Vaughn picked up 25 yards in on the next two plays and the Leopards were on the Rochester 43 with a first down.

Three plays later Miller faked beautifully to Vaughn going into the line and pitched back to Lake who circled his left end for 27 yards to the Rochester three-yard line. Vaughn scored the winning touchdown three plays later and Lake had his placement blocked again by Zupsic.

Rochester made one last bid but it died when Peel fumbled on the Midland 17 and Miller finally came up with the ball on the 12.

Three players were ejected from the game in the final period when the action became a little hot and heavy. Krivoshia and Obad Cvetovich of Midland and John Dwyer of Rochester were the players ejected from the game. Miller and guard Ray Hopa played outstanding defensive games.

Lisbon Wins 5th, 32-14; McPherson Scores Twice

SEBRING — Lisbon's tall quarterback, Larry McPherson, scored two touchdowns and passed for two more to lead the Blue Devils to a 32-14 victory over Sebring here Friday night.

Coach Bud Bucher's Blue Devils extended their record to 5-1 for the season, in coming up with a Tri-County League victory. Sebring is 1-4-1 for the year.

Sebring opened the scoring in the first quarter on a 39 yard run by Fred O'Donnell. Ken Schneider ran over the conversion.

The Blue Devils came back to march 92 yards and tie on McPherson's two-yard sneak, and his run for the conversion. Lisbon stopped a Sebring drive on the four-yard line before halftime.

In the third period, Lisbon scored again after a 75-yard drive, with McPherson getting the tally on a five-yard run. Dave Rose Attending the International Eisteddfod, or festival of the arts, in Llangollen, Wales, visitors and performers picnic and stroll about the grounds. Wandering minstrels and bards originated the festival in 12th century.

12th Century County Fair

Representing Ireland in the Folk Song competition, the McPeake family trio pose for a group photo after winning the musical event for the second time.

Ancient Wales Festival An International Event

THE INTERNATIONAL Eisteddfod at Llangollen, Wales, is considered by many to be the world's oldest county fair. Originating in the 12th century, the week-long song and dance festival attracts people from many nations. Race, color, language or creed makes no difference. Music is the universal language and a love for the arts welds all into one harmonious group.

The fair site is situated in a lush, green valley on the banks of the River Dee. Costumes from faraway lands can be seen everywhere as musicians, choral groups and dancers mingle with local townspeople and fair visitors. In the evenings there are concerts, plays, folk dancing, poetry and folk singing.

Sleeping and eating in giant tents set up on the fair grounds, the festival participants continue each year to keep alive an ancient tradition as they chat with new-found friends from other lands and share a mutual love for song and dance.

Members of a mixed choir from Austin, Minnesota, are delighted to oblige two Welsh-costumed girls with their autographs. U. S. is always well represented.

The main tent at the Eisteddfod doubles as a dining hall for the hundreds of visiting contestants. First international music Eisteddfod was founded in 1947.

An American girl visitor to the Llangollen, Wales, festival is given a lesson in basic Turkish dancing by a costumed trio who are with a folk dancing group.

A lively troupe of Spanish dancers thrill the audience with their intricate footwork as they compete in one of the contests. As early as the 6th century Welsh bards and musicians held meetings where they would vie with each other for prizes.

Gosney Gives Reply To GOP Prediction

"We will wait until the voters decide," Don R. Gosney, Columbian County Democratic chairman, said today in reply to a Republican prediction concerning the outcome of the congressional contest in the 18th District.

Walter Myers Jr., Jefferson County GOP chairman, this week said John J. Carrigan, Republican candidate, will carry Jefferson and Columbiana Counties against Rep. Wayne L. Hays, Democratic incumbent.

Gosney said no independent polls have shown any change from previous election outcomes when Rep. Hays was returned to office. "We plan to let the judgment on the winner be made at the polls," he said.

First Of Travelogues

Film Will Be Screened On 'Provincial France'

Ed Lark, professional film lecturer, will present the first in the World Travel and Adventure Series of Travelogues sponsored by the Quota Club at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Westgate School.

His color motion picture, "Provincial France," reflects his concentration on the provinces and the byways not so often visited by American tourists. Emphasis is on the beauty of France.

The film will show that France is a modern, industrial country, rich in mines and possessing great hydro-electric plants. But unlike many other industrialized nations, which are obliged to import great quantities of food, France is largely self-sufficient.

It is also a reservoir of highly individualistic, independent and liberty-loving people, whose civilization can be traced back 2,000 years or more, to the Gaul that Caesar wrote about.

To a high degree, the population is distributed more or less evenly over the land. Cities and towns give way to carefully tilled farms, with every acre under cultivation. Many of the farmers live together in little villages rather than on isolated farms and ranches. One is seldom long out of sight of human habitation and

Hospital Treats Child Who Drank Detergent

A 2-year-old West End child was treated at City Hospital Friday after drinking some detergent from a bottle her mother was using while cleaning paint from a floor, police reported.

Nancy, daughter of Mrs. Edythe Brewer, 710 W. 9th St., was taken to the hospital in a police cruiser and a physician used a stomach pump to remove the cleaning solution, officers said.

Mrs. Brewer told police she was removing paint from a floor when Nancy picked up the bottle and drank some of the contents. She notified Patrolman Paul Lemal, desk officer, who dispatched Patrolman William A. Devon to take mother and daughter to the hospital about 11:30 a.m.

Midland Firm Had Part In Canal Bridge

Dedication rites were Friday at Balboa, Panama Canal Zone, for a new $20-million bridge crossing the Panama Canal.

Among the firms participating in its construction was the George Tarbuk Co. of Midland, which held the contract for sandblasting and painting the 14,500 tons of steel required for the mile-long structure.

According to George Tarbuk, president, who attended the ceremonies, 75 men were employed to complete the job in one and a half years.

Some 17,000 gallons of paint were required to finish the necessary coatings and more than 5,000 tons of sand, a good portion of which was shipped in from the United States, were used to clean the steel before the painting.

The project was under the supervision of Donald Aaron, a resident of Chester. The steel was erected by the John F. Beasley Construction Co. of Dallas.

The span, a part of the Pan-American highway, replaces two small ferries and a swinging draw bridge at Miraflores Locks.

Negro Girl Enrolled, Color Barrier Broken

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP)—A 17-year-old Negro girl from near-by Pittsylvania County has been enrolled officially in Patrick Henry College here.

The registration Friday of Hazel Ruth Adams marked the end of the classroom color barrier in southside Virginia—an area with a heavy Negro population which has strongly resisted integration.

Patrick Henry, a branch of the University of Virginia, has no Friday or Saturday classes. Miss Adams is expected to be present when classes resume Monday.

Miss Adams said she would commute from her home at Cascade. She will take a basic preparatory course for a degree in commerce.

Milk Output Drops At North Ohio Farms

CLEVELAND (AP)—Milk production on northern Ohio farms dipped last month to the lowest level of the year, reflecting a combination of poor feed conditions and lower price supports.

Milk receipts in the Cleveland, Akron and Canton areas of 133.7 million pounds were down .7 per cent from August and 1.7 per cent from a year ago. A uniform price of $4.10 a hundredweight for 3.5 per cent butterfat milk was announced by W. W. Hurwitz, federal order administrator. A negotiated premium adds 19 cents.

Columbus Man Held In Fatal Shooting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police are holding Paul Arthur Wright, 32, in the fatal shooting Friday night of Lonnie Rogers, 50. Rogers died in Grant Hospital about an hour after he was shot at least five times with a .38 caliber revolver, police said.

Officers said the shooting climaxed an argument involving Wright's wife.

To Honor Playwright

CLEVELAND (AP)—Marc Connelly, playwright and director, and Dr. Aziz S. Atiya, director of the Middle East Center at the University of Utah, will receive honorary degrees from Baldwin-Wallace College on its 117th Founder's Day Thursday.

West Virginia's 'Moderates' Say Liquor Barely Trickle

By The Associated Press
West Virginia hasn't gone dry completely, but liquor is barely trickling in most areas, West Virginians for Moderation — supporters of a proposed liquor-by-the-drink amendment — said today.

Executive Secretary Paul Skeeter said in Charleston that 1,180 of an estimated 1,200 establishments selling liquor over the bar in West Virginia have complied with the "moderates" request to cut off sales until after the Nov. 6 election.

The idea behind the request to stop illegal sales is to create sentiment in favor of the constitutional amendment, under which liquor by the drink could be legalized.

Although Wheeling — where whiskey long was sold openly — is closed down, the trickle more nearly resembles a flood in Ohio County outside Wheeling, and in Weirton, where the dry-up request had little noticeable effect.

Skeeter said fraternal and private clubs have shut off sales in Charleston, Huntington, Logan, Bluefield, Clarksburg, Morgantown, Fairmont, Parkersburg.

Teen-Agers Favorite Escorted By Police

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Joey Dee, 22, a favorite of teen-agers for his record of "Peppermint Twist," found himself out of favor with a shopping center crowd. Dee, scheduled for three stops here Thursday night, arrived at the shopping center an hour late.

Dee didn't want to leave his car when he saw the hooting crowd of about 1,000 teen-agers. When he did get out, he refused to sing at what was advertised as an autograph-signing appearance. That made the crowd unruly and two patrolmen escorted him out to end the matter.

Biggest Disaster Drill Staged By Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Greater Cleveland staged its biggest disaster drill today, called "Operation Know How 1962." The aftermath of a fictitious tornado, it involved 500 persons made up to look like victims of fallen buildings, flying glass and an explosion.

The lobby of Hotel Statler Hilton was to be turned into a 200-bed Civil Defense emergency hospital. The mock drill was being held on the Mall.

Don't Take My Fox Lightly, Taft Warns

CLEVELAND (AP)—Robert Taft Jr., candidate for congress-at-large, is warning his Republican supporters not to take too lightly his Democratic opponent, Richard D. Kennedy.

"I don't consider this race a shoo-in," Taft told ward leaders from all over Cuyahoga County. "My opponent's name and party label are to be reckoned with."

Farm Mishap Fatal

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP)—A farm accident has claimed the life of Mrs. Catherine Mary Luersman, 37, of near Delphos. Authorities said she apparently was climbing a ladder to check on a clogged granary elevator Friday and fell.

Junior Editors Quiz on EGYPTIANS

QUESTION: Why did Egyptians paint people side view?

ANSWER: One explanation is suggested in our picture. Remember that Egyptian art goes very far back—into the prehistoric period. These first ancient artists were probably trying to draw people to look as much like people as they could. Our picture suggests how an attempt to do this might lead to the Egyptian style of drawing figures. Once started, this style lasted for 3,000 years. Why was this? Why didn't Egyptian art become more realistic, freer, more graceful, as Greek art did? Historians say that the central Egyptian idea was that of life after death. Their art was mostly one of monuments and tombs, intended to last forever, or to picture attendants and objects which would serve a dead person in the after life. The style of drawing which had been started fitted this idea; figures flattened against a wall of stone looked as if they would last as long as the wall would. There is still another point to consider. Egyptian art, in spite of its lack of movement, is very beautiful in its own way. The Egyptians no doubt took pride in this beauty.

FOR YOU TO DO: Draw two profiles, with noses, lips and chins as in our picture. In one, put in an Egyptian eye as if seen from in front. Then look at a real person's profile and see how entirely different the real eye looks from the Egyptian one. Draw this real eye in profile too.

Philip Brayne of New Britain, Conn., wins $10 for this question. Mail yours on a post card to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

Our prizes—trips around the world via Qantas Airways.

We started in Vancouver, British Columbia, where Patrick Dooley, carrier boy for the Vancouver Sunday News, taught us a new "twist" way to roll newspapers. If we can remember the knack of smacking the open end of the papers to tighten the fold, we can almost guarantee our customers that they'll have a neat bundle of news on their porches each day.

Next came Hawaii and carriers Peter Brown and Robert Morganstein. Robert told us he has three routes and must rise at 2:30 a.m. Well, anyway he doesn't have to contend with winter snows as Ricky does while delivering the Times-Democrat nor the sleet and winds in my home town.

For sheer fun, I guess Ricky and I would vote for the afternoons we spent riding on the Waikiki surf—or under it, since it fooled us a lot.

It was winter in Sydney, Australia, and everybody was bundled up except Rick and me. We thought it was brisk but no more. We found we had some talent in boomerang throwing. The carrier boys in Australia even throw their newspapers with a boomerang motion so it just sidles up on the front porch. Must try that. They also jump on buses and sell a few papers before the conductor can collect a fare. That's a dying skill, though, because, as carrier Jeff Lee told us: "Either conductors are getting faster or we're slowing down."

In Singapore and Bangkok, we were really in a foreign world. Bangkok boys deliver papers to homes and shops floating in the canals, and in Singapore they use motorcycles and motor bikes to hot-rod it through the crowded streets as if they were carrying blood plasma to an emergency operation.

WE NOTICED that the carriers usually came from large families and were quite poor. In one city we heard them described as a "bunch of ragamuffins." We didn't think of them that way, though, maybe because Ricky and I also come from large families. I'm one of six children, and my father is a factory inspector; Ricky is one of seven children, and his father is a truck driver. While we're certainly not poor, we have to work for any extra spending money.

The most exciting city we visited was Bangkok. We were fascinated by Thai boxing matches with the contestants using feet as well as fists, and we found ourselves yelling with excitement.

It is also a very religious country and one of the happiest we visited; I think religion and happiness go together.

In Egypt and Rome we visited the places we'd read about in history classes. The Pyramids and Sphinx, the Colosseum and the Trevi fountain. What impressed us most? A camel ride! No amusement-park ride is as dizzying as that!

We wished we had more time in England, but we did see Eton (and wore those top hats), a play at the Old Vic, and Buckingham Palace. We could have come back day after day to watch the changing of the guard.

Newspaperboys in London have real headaches. They must peddle 10 or 15 different papers at the same time. I tried selling them on a street corner, but you have to shuffle the papers like playing cards, and I'm afraid my customers got a bit impatient with my slowness.

By the time you read this, Ricky and I probably will be back on our old routes—same houses, same streets, same daily rush. Our routes aren't as exotic as those in Bangkok or Singapore, but we learned some things are the same in London and Sydney as in Davenport and Sacramento: first, newspapers are the most wanted commodity in the world and, second, the boys who deliver them may be "ragamuffins," but they aren't the kind who will stay that way—not if hard work and determination count for anything.

David and Rick learn Australian boomerang toss.

Good or Bad?

Bible Week, especially as scholars drastically revise the Old Testament

Eusebius Sophronius Hieronymus, known to us as St. Jerome. His first Latin translation gave Pope Damasus the Gospels. Other sections followed, but when the Pope died, Jerome departed for Palestine, and for the next 34 years he worked on his Latin Old Testament. The result was a translation which became the celebrated "Vulgate" version of the Catholic faith. It served the Christian world without challenge for more than 1,000 years.

Roughly 1,000 years after St. Jerome ended his labors, England's scholars and squires were growing restless. King Henry VIII was fighting bitterly with Rome. Learned men were objecting to religion imposed by the state. One was a priest named William Tyndale.

He resolved that common people should have the right to learn for themselves of Christ's teachings without need to depend on Latin guidance. In the home of a friend, he worked for six months at the task of translating the New Testament into English. By that time he saw that the translation could not be completed in England. Taking with him the books needed for the translation, Tyndale sailed in the spring of 1524 for the Continent. Volumes he printed in Worms early in 1526 were carried back to England, and the king's clergy reported that Tyndale was publishing sedition.

A VENGEFUL BISHOP of London took steps to stop the spread of the Scriptures in English. Possession of a Tyndale New Testament was pronounced a crime! Agents of the bishop went to Europe and bought all the copies they could find. One night, thousands were heaped before St. Paul's Cathedral in London and burned.

In the free city of Antwerp, Tyndale continued to translate the Old Testament and to print and preach against a state religion until 1536, when he was strangled to death and burned at the stake—for translating the Bible into English!

But the hunger of Englishmen for Bibles could not be quenched. Miles Coverdale brought out an edition in 1535, the first complete Bible printed in English. On the strength of this work, he was asked to edit other editions, notably the Great Bible of 1539, authorized by the King. Tyndale's dying prayer, "Open the King of England's eyes," had been answered.

A powerful 17th-century group, who called themselves Puritans, initiated almost by accident the beloved King James Version. When King James I was en route to his coronation, they waylaid his coach and demanded a meeting because "things are amiss with the church." He summoned them presently to Hampton Court, his red-brick castle on the Thames, where the Puritans complained about the old Bible. "We need a rendering in a way of speech that is universally comprehended," they said.

This point was the only one with which James I could agree, so he appointed 54 learned men to create a new Bible. They worked at the universities of Oxford, Cambridge, and Westminster. Their pay was free board and room, yet they labored seven years to complete it.

A professor reviewing it for the king wrote, "I had rather be rent to pieces with wild horses than any such translation should be urged upon poor churches . . . The new edition crosseth me. I require it to be burnt."

Only when the clergy began to use the King James Version in their pulpits did it gain acceptance. Audiences found themselves memorizing its verses and grand cadences, and singing its beautiful phrases. Finally, in a swelling tide, the King James Version—introduced in 1611—became the world's most popular book.

Several years earlier, English Catholics, who had rejected their monarch's order to abandon their religion, began to work on an English translation of their own at the French towns of Douay and Rheims, to which they had fled. We know their work today as the Douay Version of the Old Testament and the Confraternity revision of the Rheims New Testament.

WITH THE KING JAMES and Douay Bibles, the English-speaking world had two authorized Bibles. Surely, men would now be satisfied. But times change, words grow obsolete, mistakes are revealed, and earlier manuscripts are discovered. New readers could not know that the "neezings" of King James were modern sneezes, that his "reins" referred to our kidneys, or that, in certain instances, his "by and by" meant immediately.

In the second half of the last century, work on the great revisions of our time got under way. England's Revised Version in the 1880s was followed by the American Version. At mid-20th century, the Revised Standard Version was published. Finally, came the New English Bible. Instead of going to earlier English sources, the translators acted as if there had never been a previous translation. Their sources were all the earliest extant texts, plus the then recently discovered Dead Sea Scrolls.

Similarly, the American Catholic Biblical Association has published a volume which translates 18 books of the Old Testament into current idiom, the first of a five-volume series based on Hebrew and Greek manuscripts.

Regardless of whose translation it is, however, some of the new words and phrases will sound harsh to ears accustomed to the music of older versions. Time will tell which is superior. Will it be:

"Consider how the lilies grow in the fields," as in the New English Bible, or "Consider the lilies of the field how they grow" of the King James Version?

Will it be the New English Bible's "Come to me, all whose work is hard, whose load is heavy; and I will give you relief"; or the King James': "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest"?

Precisely how the Old Testament will be revised by NEB scholars is not known. We do know, however, that words like "virgin," "Jehovah," and "leprosy" will disappear from the forthcoming volume, and "thou," "thee," "doth" and "saith" will be eliminated except where characters speak to God. Scholars explain that "virgin" and "leprosy" are inaccurate translations of the original Greek and Hebrew, and "Jehovah" is a made-up word of the 16th century.

In considering Bible revisions we should remember one thing—no matter how the original truths of the Bible are translated, their power is the important thing. When dedicated men change the words of the Bible, their purpose is not whimsical or irreverent; rather, it is to make the great messages clearer and more understandable to the greatest number of people.

THOSE NEW BIBLE TRANSLATIONS:

It's a pertinent question for National

By CURTIS MITCHELL

WHY DO MEN keep making new translations of the Bible?

Last year, for example, a revision of the New Testament was published. Created by a committee of English scholars, it was called the "New English Bible." Now the same group is preparing drastic word changes in a revised Old Testament to be published in four years.

Changing the Bible is nothing new. It has been going on for centuries, and each new version has had its defenders and attackers. Take these comments on the most recent New Testament revision:

"Here is liquid eloquence," says the Rev. Daniel A. Poling. "The Sermon on the Mount, the 14th chapter of St. John's Gospel . . . these and so many others misted my eyes and put a song in my heart."

"It has no tang or even flavor," writes J. Donald Adams, in the New York Times. "I find it a wishy-washy approximation of current English."

What moves men to undertake such controversial labors which historically have brought them harsh penalties?

A typical case is that of a Belgian army chaplain named Paul Passelecq who became a concentration-camp prisoner in World War II. For the first time, he learned how little an average man understood Christ's message as printed in old French Bibles.

"If I live, I'll do something about this," he vowed.

When American troops liberated him at Dachau, he rented a room and worked around the clock to translate the New Testament from the early Greek. When he completed Matthew, he published it as a small pamphlet. Next, Mark and Luke, and the remainder. Bible-hungry people demanded more, and his project absorbed his time year after year. Without support from any agency, he has printed and distributed hundreds of thousands of French-language Bibles which people could understand.

IN 1883, a Swedish missionary couple, Dr. and Mrs. Earl Lindquist, went to Eritrea in Northeast Africa to meet a miserable people lacking even a written language. The missionaries decided that their first service, after food and medicine, should be a Bible in the native tongue.

Mrs. Lindquist learned Tigriña, the local dialect, reduced it to writing, and began her arduous task. She finished the New Testament 20 years later.

When her husband died, she was ordered home. "My work has just begun," she argued, and went ahead. After 46 more years, she had translated the Old Testament. Only then did she retire.

How did it start—this spreading of the Word?

Following the ministry of Jesus and the Apostle St. Paul's journeys, Christianity exploded throughout the civilized world. Hand-copied Gospels multiplied wherever men could recall His sayings. Almost four centuries later, Pope Damasus in Rome felt the need for a version that would accurately express the content of the original Greek accounts of Jesus' life.

To perform this task, he chose a learned priest named

Helen Hayes (center) and fellow actress June Havoc banter with President Kennedy before leaving on 26-nation tour to showcase American theater.

Presidents and First

Success opened the door of the White House to a great actress—but she had

AS A RESULT of Jacqueline Kennedy's efforts, the White House now reflects all the best aspects of American culture. This is important to everyone, but it is especially important to me.

I was born in Washington and came of age there. In my memory, the White House stands out as a place of childhood awe—and later as the scene of cherished moments with Presidents and First Ladies.

But when I was a youngster, my life was remote from the glitter of Washington society. Our home was a funny little house on Q Street, and the only time I got to the White House was for the egg rolling at Easter.

After the egg roll, we children sat around a red-checked tablecloth on the White House lawn, eating our colorful prizes. Above us on the balcony, President Theodore Roosevelt addressed the crowd. But to a child's eye he seemed a remote and not quite real figure.

Presidential inaugurations also were big events for Washington children. I recall watching an inaugural parade from the front room of one of the many shabby hotels (really flophouses) that then lined the streets from the Capitol to within several blocks of the White House. My family and I shared a room rented for 25 cents a day, and we watched the gala event while munching deviled eggs and ham sandwiches, staple "picnic" fare in the pre-hamburger era.

Woodrow Wilson was the first President I saw face to face. I was a minor player at Poli's Theater, where the President frequently came to see our beautiful star, Izetta Jule, who was his friend. After one of our shows, Izetta introduced me to the President. He shook my hand. I simply

with Flora Rheta Schreiber

couldn't believe this was happening to Helen Hayes Brown!

We were humble people. My Grandfather Brown was an obscure Government clerk. My father managed a wholesale meat-packing concern. Mother had been a cashier in a drugstore before her marriage and as a housewife worked so hard that I can still see her hands, lye-stained from household labors.

My early identity as a girl from "the other side of the tracks"—and the distinction between the two sides is even sharper in Washington than elsewhere—haunted me at this first meeting with Woodrow Wilson, as it was to haunt me all through my life whenever I met the great.

I felt this awe, for instance, when I first met the Franklin D. Roosevelts, while I was playing the queen in "Victoria Regina" at Washington's National Theater. Mrs. Roosevelt invited me to lunch at the White House and, by a happy inadvertency, I mentioned that I didn't have a performance that evening. "Then you must come to dinner and the diplomatic reception," she said.

She sent a car for me, even though I was staying at the Hay-Adams Hotel, just across Lafayette Park from the White House. Stepping into the car, I asked myself: do I dare ask the driver to take me around town? I wanted my family in Washington to see me riding in a White House car and about to dine with the President of the United States. But I couldn't summon enough courage to make that suggestion to the driver.

Arriving at the White House, I found the dinner was a small one, including only President and Mrs. Roosevelt, their daughter Anna, Secretary of State and Mrs. Cordell Hull, two Midwest governors, and me. When the President entered the room, he greeted me with: "And how is Your Majesty?" It was a charming bit of persiflage, and at persiflage he was always a master.

When Mrs. Roosevelt told us that she had invited 2,500 persons to the diplomatic reception, the President groaned.

"I tried to cut the list, but I couldn't," she said. "It isn't just the diplomats but all the others to whom it means so much. There's the backwash of other administrations, the widows of people who were important, all those fringe people. This is the one thing these people have to look forward to all year—shaking hands with the President."

2,500 Hands to Shake

It was the sort of earnest husband-wife spat that could have taken place at any dinner table. I felt that they were both right—Mrs. Roosevelt for her broad humanity and the President because it would be a difficult ordeal for him to stand while shaking 2,500 hands. Until this moment, I hadn't realized how greatly crippled he was from polio.

During the reception, Mrs. Roosevelt told me that the President needed a respite. She asked me to chat with him in his study.

I felt I would be struck dumb if left alone with the President—and I fulfilled my own prediction. He talked about his State of the Union message, which he was to deliver in a few days. "As a woman with no ax to grind, what do you think I should say?" he asked.

"You are asking me, Mr. President?" I heard

Let LEONARD BERNSTEIN open the door to the wonderful world of music for your family

An extraordinary new book with 5 long-playing 7" records will bring the magic of his famous
Young People's Concerts into your home

STARTING this fall you can give your children the gift of living with great music — of having their taste and understanding guided and nurtured by a great musician: Leonard Bernstein.

Leonard Bernstein's Young People's Concerts on television are among the phenomena of our age. Millions of us have wanted to relive them — to hear again the great music and the flashing insights that have transformed our old habit of "lazy listening" into a richly active adventure in the joy of music.

In permanent form at last

Now at last, the greatest of these celebrated concerts have been put in permanent form — to be relived, re-read, re-played, returned to over the years.

They will be published, in the fall of this year, in the form of a unique musical treasure chest: records and a book that together encompass the heart of this extraordinary musical education.

About the contents

THE BOOK, beautifully illustrated with over 50 color pictures and 100 musical examples and diagrams, contains Mr. Bernstein's incomparable commentaries, rewritten for reading.

THE FIVE LONG-PLAYING 7" RECORDS are performed by major orchestras, chiefly the New York Philharmonic under Leonard Bernstein's direction and produced by Columbia Records. They enable you to listen, whenever you wish, to the great music (from Bach and Haydn to the modern American composers, Copland and Ives) that illustrate the major points made in the book.

Never before has such a magical open sesame to musical understanding been made available to the family.

Mr. Bernstein's narrative is alive with his exuberant joy in music, his genius for making us understand. He ranges over the whole world of music.

He talks of Beethoven and of folk songs. He shows how Bach constructs a fugue, following "instructions" as precise as those that come with a child's Erector Set — then lets you hear an example, from the fourth Brandenburg Concerto, played by the Philharmonic.

He shows how a symphonic work develops — and grows — from its first note to its finale.

He explains orchestration with a score-it-yourself experiment for the young reader — and a Ravel recording to demonstrate the special effects of the various instruments.

He explains the techniques of composition that produce the shimmering "colors" of Debussy's La Mer — and plays it for you. He tells — and illustrates with records — what makes music classical, what makes it romantic, what makes it American, or French, or Italian; what makes it funny. And one of the special delights in store for you is the example he gives, on a record, from a great symphony that makes you laugh: Prokofiev's "Classical" Symphony.

He invites us to experiment with the "meaning of music" through a recording of Moussorgsky. He explains counterpoint in terms of "Three Blind Mice." He leads us closer to the grandeur of Beethoven and Brahms.

He opens innumerable doors to the world of music. Whoever reads the book and listens to the records — be it a child or a highly educated adult — becomes a citizen of that world.

Special Money-Saving Opportunity

The publishers are sparing no effort to make this musical treasure-chest as entrancing to look at as it is to read and hear. The 7" vinyl LP recordings, the book with its color pictures and musical examples — all in a handsome case — will be a delight to own and give.

Enormous advance interest enables us to plan an unusually large printing which will so radically bring down the cost that we can offer the complete boxed set for only $12.50. But you can save even more if you reserve your set now.

He tried to draw me out, but I wouldn't be drawn. He pressed a stein of beer on me. I hate beer, but I drank it as though I were about to die of thirst. It was the only thing I seemed capable of doing during the 30-minute visit.

I think my mother had something to do with my reticence in the presence of the great. When I was a child actress, most stage mothers encouraged their children to go up to the producer after the show and say hello, but Mother insisted I should not impose on "big" people.

But my modest mother had her own moment of recognition by a "big" person, for in Herbert Hoover she found an admirer. When I met President Hoover, he told me that Mother's "Letters to Mary," which appeared in The Saturday Evening Post, was "one of the best things I ever read." I couldn't wait to tell her about it.

I have known the Eisenhowers since Ike was a general. I first met him when we shared the same stage at a Red Cross rally.

When a photographer asked him to pose with my 6-year-old daughter Mary, he bowed deeply, turned to her, and said: "I would be honored to pose with you." Then he playfully remarked to me: "Your daughter is taller than you. My son John is taller than I am, too. It's awfully hard having your own child talk down to you." Ike and I commiserated with each other over our children's natural strategic advantages. That was the beginning of our friendship.

During General Eisenhower's first Presidential campaign, I was touring the country in the play, "Mrs. McThing." When I stepped off the train at Denver, Colorado's Governor Dan Thornton was there to greet me. "General Eisenhower wants me to bring you right over to visit with Mamie and her mother," he said.

When I entered the Eisenhowers' hotel room, the General greeted me warmly. Instinctively, I drew back. He was not yet President, but I knew he would be, and as much as I admired him as a man and a friend, I froze as I had done years before with Franklin Roosevelt.

"Go up and see Mamie," General Eisenhower said gently. I was glad to run away from my own embarrassment.

Later, when I was playing at the National Theater in Washington, Mamie came to a matinee and invited me to bring the four children in the cast to the White House pool for a swim. Leaving the young actors and the Eisenhower grandchildren splashing under the watchful eye of a Secret Service man, Mamie, her daughter-in-law Barbara, and I visited in the upstairs family sitting room. Suddenly the President appeared.

"Who are those children in the pool?" he asked Mamie. "I heard splashing and I thought it was David, but he wasn't there. I went to the dressing room to look for him; he wasn't there, either. But I found a strange boy on my exercise horse—stark naked. When the boy saw me, he said, 'Cheese, it's Eisenhower!' and ran off."

Mamie Yearned for a Private Life

I had to explain that the strange boy was Bobby Mariotti, who played my son on the stage and that he was Mamie's guest. The bewildered President was delighted to have me solve the riddle of the strange boy on the exercise horse.

As the Eisenhower second term entered its final phase, Mamie showed signs of wanting to be a private citizen again. One afternoon when I was visiting with her and her sister, Mrs. Moore, Mamie showed us her packing. "You have plenty of time—a year and a half, to be exact," Mrs. Moore reminded her.

"But it will take such a long time to get out of here," Mamie replied.

The house that Mamie was eager to leave will always hold memories for me—not only the memory of large events but also of small things.

The house has all kinds of strange errors of architecture. Mrs. Roosevelt showed me the room in which the King and Queen of England slept and which, to her embarrassment, had no closet—only a wardrobe.

I also shall never forget the time Mrs. Roosevelt showed me the President's bathroom with the Presidential shield firmly embossed over the tub. "It is a funny place for the Presidential shield," she remarked.

When Helen played "Victoria Regina" in Washington, Mrs. Roosevelt invited her to lunch.

Corky—A Pin-Up Pet

By Bess A. Lee

If you want a new pet dog, Corky makes a good one because he likes to follow wherever you go. Pin him to your hat, sweater, or lapel, and you will both be happy as you travel around together.

Corky is made of two corks, one larger than the other. Fasten them together, in the position shown, by running a pin through the head and into the body. Use small black beads for eyes. Stick them on by running small tacks through them and into the head. Paint his nose with red nail polish or black paint. Cut pieces of black paper, cloth, or felt for his ears and tack in place. Push pieces of matchsticks into the body for legs. Hold the back of a large safety pin horizontally against one side of the dog's body and wrap yarn around the body to hold the pin in place when fastened to your clothes. Wind it back to where you started and tie the ends together in a tight knot. Tack on a short piece of yarn for Corky's tail. Now he is ready to go with you anywhere.

Presidents and First Ladies

Helen awards Mamie Eisenhower, then First Lady, with a scroll in recognition of her generous charity work.

"Not at all," I replied. "This is the one place you need to know you're somebody!"

Today, the White House is at its richest in American feeling. Jacqueline Kennedy has filled it with Americana. And under the Kennedys, the living arts, too, are getting their best chance to date.

When I was growing up, Washington was a cultural desert. The theater, music, and the dance generally were regarded as frivolous, but this young couple takes a different view of the living arts, and their view reflects the change in Americans in general.

In March, 1961, I spent a half-hour with President Kennedy in his office. With me were June Havoc, Helen Menken, and Leif Erickson. We were just about to go on our 26-nation tour, the first theater project under the State Department's cultural exchange program. The President had invited us to talk with him.

Mr. Kennedy expressed a very sincere belief in what we were doing. We talked of the new National Cultural Center, a bureau of the Smithsonian Institution which was created by Act of Congress and on whose advisory board I am privileged to serve. The President said he saw in it the promise of a genuine showcase for the living arts of the entire country.

It was a curious thing: for the first time, I didn't freeze up with a President. Perhaps it was because the other Presidents were older than I, and this one was younger. Or perhaps it was that President Kennedy is the kind of man I've known all my life. I like the Irish; Helen Hayes Brown has always been close to them. So I felt at home with a President at last.

How You Can Help Build the National Cultural Center

■ The National Cultural Center, to which Helen Hayes refers in her story, will be built with citizens' contributions on a site in the nation's capital selected by Congress. To raise funds for the Center, a nationwide closed-circuit telecast will be held in about 100 cities on Nov. 29. Half the net proceeds will remain in these cities to support their own symphonies, operas, ballets, the museums. The other half will go to the Center.

If you believe, as Miss Hayes does, that national pride and recognition for American performing artists are important, support your city's American Pageant of the Arts on Nov. 29, or send your contribution directly to the National Cultural Center, 718 Jackson Place, N. W., Washington 6, D. C.

Law of the Range

Ah, kitchen ranges have always stood
As their forebears stood before them:
Close to the wall, the way they should,
But keeping a nice decorum.

For the ancient Law of the Range directs

That always there be between them
Space enough so that dirt collects,
But not enough room to clean them!

—Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

As soon as he saw his married daughter at the front door, the harried businessman knew he had trouble. "Well, what is it now?" he sighed. "Daddy," the daughter said, "George needs a little help."

"Help!" exclaimed the father. "What more can I do for that no-good husband of yours? I've already spent a lot of money setting him up in a business, and it's a failure!"

"Yes, but George has a wonderful solution," the daughter replied. "He wants you to buy him out!"

—John Shotwell

During a class in American history, the teacher was discussing the folkways of the Puritan society. "Does anybody know what kind of people were punished in stocks?"

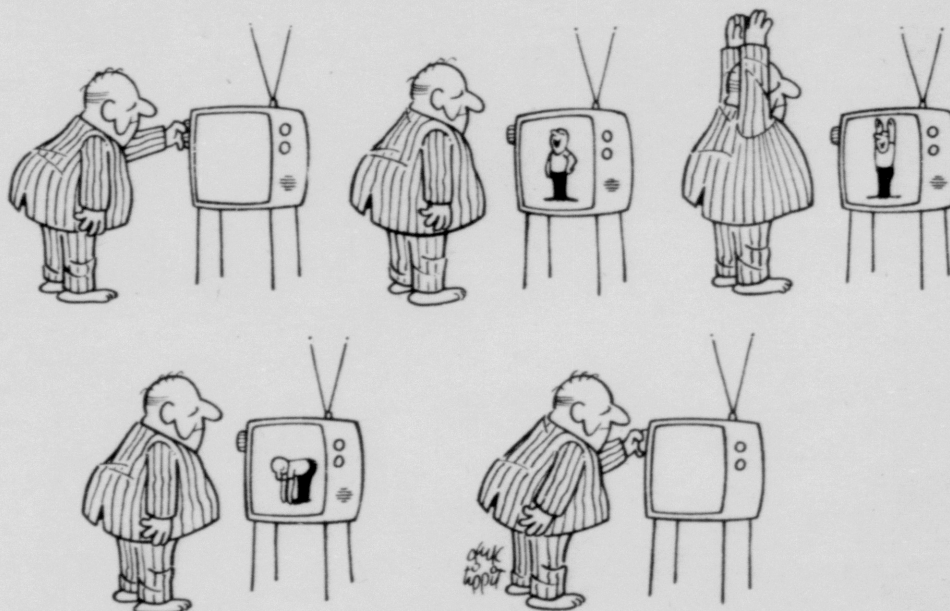

From the back of the room came an eager reply: "Probably small investors!"

Social Contacts

Often, the key to social success
Has nothing to do with brains or wit;
It isn't what you know but who—
And if she's free to baby sit.

—Suzanne Douglass

I was just thinking...

THE BIG CITY scares me a little. I am lost in its steel-walled darkness, a feeble adversary of its indifference.

"Where you bound for?" asked the cab driver on the way in from the airport. "Florida? The missus and me are gonna live there some day. We're savin' for it."

"It's a beautiful place," I said. That's all I said for miles.

The cab driver never saw my face. He spoke from need. He told me of his surgeon brother in New York, his psychiatrist brother in Los Angeles. He told me of his own failure in medical school. He told me of his teen-age son on the baseball team and his daughter who could cook. He spoke of his tragedies and his happiness and how it was to drive a heavy truck to Detroit.

When I paid him and left, we parted in a peculiar limbo of friendship.

Later, at the hotel, I sorted the waiter's accent into English I could comprehend.

"Have you been in this country long?" I inquired politely.

I had no need to say more. As he served and took away the soup, as he brought the entree tenderly to my plate, the words burst from him. Furtively, one eye on the maitre d', he described the escape from Siberia, the return to Europe for the Latvian wife, the struggle to create a new world for himself among the canyons of the city.

When he brought the bill, he laid it with a kind of apology at my plate as though he might rather have accepted it himself in return for my listening ear and my silent tolerance.

And so it was in the city. I will not see my Latvian friend again, nor the cab driver who failed in his brothers' world. Yet from their own lives they gave a stranger something of themselves and in a gratitude that it was not rejected.

Perhaps they gave more than they knew. Perhaps I did the same for them. They are two faces in the crowd, two of a poet's petals on a wet, black bough.

I went away from the city in their fragrance.

Only Girl at a Boys' School

The ratio is 130 to 1

Louise Page Smith, the only girl attending Lake Placid, N. Y., boys' school, leads glee club

AT NORTHWOOD, a prep school for boys at Lake Placid, N. Y., the glee club suddenly has become an extremely popular activity. The reason: the first tenor who doubles as an alto is—a girl.

Seventeen-year-old Louise Page Smith (everybody calls her Page) is the only girl among the school's 130 students. What's more, she's pretty—pert, green-eyed, and honey-haired. That's enough to make even the most unmelodious swain want to burst into song.

Page is attending Northwood at the request of her father, who is varsity football coach. When he came to Northwood last season, he asked that Page's admission as a student be written into his contract.

Page wasn't at all sure she would like the idea, but she has fitted in well. "Everything is working out wonderfully," she says. "If Northwood had to take a girl, I'm glad it was me."

In speech class, Page takes some kidding.

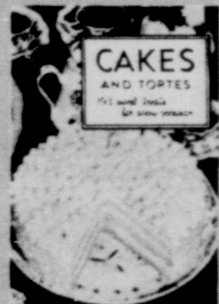

A superb tart-sweet flavor distinguishes this handsome lemon-lime pie.
